Congress Comes Back Sad, Snowy, Slippery John D. the Third Easy, With Russia

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.

CONGRESS met yesterday and a cut of $160,000,000 in the income tax is the program.

That will be welcome news to those that pay income tax, a small percentage of all the people.

But it is just as important to those that pay no income tax. They all earn money, and any cut in income tax, especially in corporation tax, encourages development, expansion, employment.

A man will work harder for money that the government does not take from him.

Sad, snowy, rainy day in Wall Street. Snow falling, melting, sidewalks, streets and prices slippery. Not much progress on the ticker.

But there is no bad news, and that is good news.

Prosperity, for the next few months, depends on the mental attitude of the people and their private talking. No president, no collections of hundred million dollar men, no promises to spend billions can wipe out the bad effects of a national pessimistic mood.

If every man would learn to talk about the country's progress and future as a young mother talks about her new baby, there would be no dancer of hard times.

John D. Rockefeller, 3d, grandson of the builder of the name, went to work at 26 Broadway yesterday morning. He was on time.

Twenty-three years old, a big young man—bigger, physically than his father—John D., 3d, will have many opportunities in life. He will inherit what is called the world's largest fortune. By the time he gets it it may not be as big as Edsel Ford's, and not as big as that of some unknown today.

But he will surely have enough to carry out any ideas that he may have. Everything depends on the ideas.

A few men, because of great wealth, stand out in history. There was the richest Roman, whose son went to war with Caesar, and made a good general. His father, with all the money, made a failure when he went with Lucullus.

The original old Medici that took to money-making, his sons doing more than any family on earth ever did for art.

Jacques Coeur, the rich man of France, used his fortune for his country at a time of need, was treated with the usual ingratitude.

Now comes the Rockefeller, third generation, starting with hundreds of millions around him, and many other hundreds of millions in pools of oil under the ground.

His father and grandfather have done a great deal for the health and education of the world. The world will wish John D., 3d, success.

He will have to work hard to keep ahead of some other 25-year-old heir, without a dollar, but with something more valuable, NECESSITY DRIVING HIM.

It is easy to succeed in spite of poverty, hard to succeed in spite of gigantic wealth.

The Government sends a note of protest to Russia, Britain and China joining in.

Britain's foreign secretary is careful to tell the House of Commons that the thing was done at the suggestion of the United States.

It is all right to make mild suggestions. Let us hope that this country will not be put in a position to spend billions, and without success, to help some witless financiers get back loans stupidly made to the Czar and Kerensky when a baby should have known better.

Wise Japan keeps aloof, does not meddle, attends strictly to JAPAN'S BUSINESS.

Those polite gentlemen of the East are not seeking for any quarrel with Russia. They know they would have to deal with a Russia different from the one that Japan beat so easily under the Czar.

While Madeline Nolon looked on yesterday, one young man who wanted to marry her shot and killed another young man who had the same idea. Miss Nolon, grieved, said she had tried her best to try to keep the young gentlemen apart.

That horrifies us, and is hard to understand. It was the commonest thing in the world with our ancestors in the early days. Your great-grandmother 500 times removed would have thought poorly of any suitor that would not kill another as a casual event in courtship.

In Sing Sing, Reuben Kaminsky, 17 years old, standing in line with hundreds of other prisoners,

MAN BURNED TO DEATH, 2 INJURED

Girl Leaps for Life in Snow as Flames Sweep North Cambridge Home

Trapped by flame and smoke in his attic bedroom, one man was burned to death early today, while his brother and sister, their night clothes flaming, were badly injured as they leaped from windows in a frenzied try for safety.

The dead man is Humbert A. Ferrari, 30, of 29 Sargent st., North Cambridge.

At Cambridge Relief Hospital are his sister, Genevieve, and his brother Romeo, 26. Both will recover.

But for the whining of a pet collie dog, fire officials said today, the entire family would have been trapped by the flames and probably have met the same fate as Humbert.

Frank Ferrari, the father, and Genevieve were asleep on the second floor of the building, a 2½-story structure, when the dog "Rover," awoke them with his barking. They found their bedrooms filled with smoke.

The elderly man ran to the door of his bedroom and was confronted with a wall of flame. Returning to the room, he opened a window and plunged out.

Seconds later, Genevieve, a hu-

MRS. ROGERS IS BOOMED FOR U. S. SENATE

Says She Is Too Busy With Work in House Now to Consider Matter

The name of Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell was today added to the growing list of possible successors to Senator Frederick H. Gillett, who has announced his coming retirement.

Mrs. Rogers still further muddled the situation by failing to definitely decline to run, although stating she is too busy with her work in the House to give the matter consideration at this time.

At the present writing Eben S. Draper of Hopedale is the only openly avowed candidate for the senatorial nomination, having shied his bowler into the ring immediately following Gillett's announcement.

Calvin Coolidge, frequently and hopefully mentioned by the dopesters, is preserving his customary silence. Alvan T. Fuller, who is known to have looked longingly on the toga of the past, is holding off, while the Republican organization anxiously awaits his action.

Various other prominent men who might reasonably be eager to make the fight are waiting to see what action Coolidge and Fuller will take.

Mrs. Rogers, when questioned at Washington about becoming a candidate, said:

"Many persons have requested

Hoover's Message

Washington, Dec. 3—President Hoover today in his first message to Congress on the state of the Union said:

"We are not only at peace with all the world, but the foundations for future peace are being substantially strengthened. Through the Kellogg-Briand pact a great moral standard has been raised in the world.

"In January, 1926, the Senate gave its consent to adherence to The Court of International Justice with certain reservations. In September of this year the statute establishing the court has, by the action of the nations signatory, been amended to meet the Senate's reservations and to go even beyond these reservations to make clear that the court is a true international court of justice.

"I believe it will be clear to everyone that no controversy or question in which this country has or claims an interest can be passed on by the court without our consent at the time the question arises. The doubt about advisory opinions has been completely safeguarded.

"Our adherence to the International Court is, as now constituted, not the slightest step toward entry into the League of Nations. As before indicated, I shall direct that

ADMITS THAT ENFORCING OF LAW IS FAILING

Declares for Entry in World Court, Cut in the Taxes and Flexible Tariff

Washington, Dec. 3—President Hoover informed Congress today that the most serious issue before the American people is the steady growth of lawlessness.

The President announced that he would soon direct signature of the protocol for entry of the United States into the World Court and submit it to the Senate.

In his first annual message, giving an account of his stewardship in the White House for nine months and affording a peek into the future, the President reported that the general state of the nation—economically, financially and from an international standpoint—is excellent.

But law enforcement, he declared, is far from satisfactory; and these conditions must be remedied.

He referred specifically to prohibition. And as in his inaugural address last March he sounded again a clarion call for law observance by all classes of society, particularly by so-called "good citizens."

"We can no longer," he said, "close over the unpleasant reality that he who condones or traffics with crime, who is indifferent to it and to punishment of the criminal, is himself the most effective agency for the breakdown of society. It is the most serious issue before our people."

WHAT HE RECOMMENDS

The ban of prohibition itself is concerned, Mr. Hoover again proposed some of the remedial measures he put forward last March—the creation of a Commission from the Treasury to the Department of Justice, simplification of court procedure, improved methods of application of prohibitory laws to eliminate red tape—but in the final analysis he seemed to regard the principal remedy lies with the people themselves.

He observed, "cannot rise above its source in good citizenship and with what right-minded men most earnestly believe and desire."

It was noted with some significance, however, that the President did not mention, let alone endorse, the Sheppard bill which would make the buyer of liquor a felon along with the seller. Nor did he recommend any greater appropriation from the Treasury to reinforce the army of agents now trying to enforce the law.

The blot of lawlessness was the principal, virtually the only one, which Mr. Hoover found in the brilliant picture of national conditions.

FOR CUT IN TAXES.

He reported business basically sound, so much so, in fact, that it was safe to immediately cut federal taxes to the extent of $160,000,000, benefiting all classes.

The outlook for international peace and reduction of armament never was better, he said. He asserted agricultural conditions are vastly improved, that railways are in a sound condition and that, generally speaking, the American people are better off today than they have ever been, in a material sense.

"The problems we are confronted with," he said, "are the problems of growth and progress."

On the tariff, with which Congress wrestled unsuccessfully all summer, he reiterated his desire for a tariff beneficial primarily to agriculture and to "sick industries," but he refrained again from expressing any opinion upon the

PROBE 'BRAWL' IN ARMORY

A military court of inquiry with power to recommend disciplinary measures was ordered today by Adjutant-Gen. Jesse S. Stevens into the alleged brawl attention at the Haverhill state armory.

The court will convene in the armory at the call of its chairman, Col. Daniel Needham of West Newton, 101st Field Artillery. He has not yet set the date. Other board members are Maj. Kenneth McKillop of Everett, 101st Infantry, and Maj. Harry L. Spencer of Boston, 213th Coast Artillery.

"The court will examine and report on the facts and advise and recommend as to what disciplinary military administration action should be taken."

The inquiry centers around Capt. Donald C. Rose of Co. A, 182nd Infantry, who has refused to resign after alleged brawls in the armory. Defense was that "a couple of drunks" had made a disturbance and were thrown out.

VARE DEFENSE RAPS SENATORS

Washington, Dec. 3 (INS)—Both Republican and Democratic candidates in some States spent more money in the 1928 election per voting district, per vote and per capita, than the Vare ticket cost in Pennsylvania's 1926 election, Francis S. Brown, chief counsel for Senator-elect William S. Vare barred from his seat because of irregularities in his campaign, said today.

Brown's revelation of Vare's defense carried the inference that a sense of weariness should be unveiled on slush fund charges if Vare is finally refused admittance to the Senate.

Files $300,000 Bond

A bond of $300,000 was filed in the Norfolk Probate Court at Dedham by Adelbert E. Buffum of Cohasset, who has been appointed trustee of an estate of Thomas Parsons of Brookline, who left personal property amounting to $116,000 and real estate of $35,000.

Storm Kills Hundred; Three Die in Boston

One hundred persons were killed in the snow and rain-storm which swept through the entire country yesterday, according to figures compiled today. Three of this number died in Greater Boston.

The third death from the storm in Greater Boston was reported today. William F. Costello, 70, of Hill st., Dorchester, died from heart failure induced by overexertion from tramping through the snow.

He had just returned home from work as a night watchman when he fell exhausted on the steps of his dwelling. Neighbors carried him in but he died before the arrival of a physician. Mr. Costello leaves a wife and two daughters.

Many of the persons who died in other sections of the country were vagrants, found frozen to death from exposure.

Thousands of workmen employed by the city, Boston Elevated and the various railroads entering Boston labored today to remove the 5.8-inch snowfall which hampered traffic and caused many accidents. Besides had the heaviest snowfall in New England.

The forecast for Boston and vicinity: Partly cloudy and slightly colder tonight; Wednesday, partly cloudy with slowing rising temperature; moderate westerly winds. The minimum temperature tonight will be around 22.

32,045 FOR DRY REFERENDUM

The Constitutional Liberty League today filed with Secretary of State Cook, 32,045 certified signatures to provide at the next election a referendum on the proposed repeal of the Massachusetts "Baby Volstead" padlock liquor law.

To place the referendum in the Legislature only 20,000 signatures were necessary and the extra names assure its presence on the ballot regardless of legislative action. 5,045 additional signatures being the amount needed to override defeat in the General Court.

The league obtained more than 40,000 signatures, but did not certify all of them.

NO DAMAGES FOR R. I. CAR IN MASS.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hanson of West Barrington, R. I., lose verdicts totalling $4300 by a decision of the full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court today.

The verdicts were returned by a Norfolk County jury for injuries sustained when Mr. Hanson's automobile was in collision with a truck of the Massachusetts highway department at Walpole, August 30, 1927.

Although negligence on the part of the defendant was shown the Supreme Court holds the Hansons were not entitled to recover, as Mr. Hanson's car was not registered in Massachusetts.

Detective Tells How McManus Gave Up

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Although in the next room to that where the State contends George McManus shot Arnold Rothstein, two people told detectives they heard no noise or disturbance in Room 349 between 10:30 and 11 p. m., the night of Nov. 4, 1928, it was testified at McManus' trial for murder today.

The testimony was brought out in cross-examination of Detective Patrick Flood by Jame- D. C. Murtagh, defense attorney.

Flood said he and other detectives made the rounds of the rooms on the third floor after they had found Rothstein fatally wounded on the first floor.

In room 347 they found a man and woman.

"Had they heard any noise between 10:30 and 11 p. m., the night of November 4, 1928?" Murray asked.

HEARD NO NOISE

"I believe they said they hadn't," although I wouldn't say positively," Flood answered.

The room was occupied by a couple registered from Mount Vernon, N. Y., Flood said. But he didn't remember their names.

Murray also questioned Flood as to whether he had questioned a "Congressman Morris from Pennsylvania." McManus had whispered the name to his counsel, but Flood said he hadn't.

The question of whether the police pursued the case with diligence, a charge that they didn't bring, one of the major issues of the recent city election, was brought into the case for the first time today.

Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., presiding, interrupted questioning of Detective Flood by Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers to ask how detailed testimony of police investigation was material and added that he didn't see how the question of police duty or negligence had anything to do with the case.

MRS. KEYES MET JACK.

Brothers said he didn't either, but he was laying groundwork for his case and the judge allowed him to proceed.

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Expansion of the public buildings program through an increased appropriation of $215,000,000 of which $100,000,000 would be expended outside the District of Columbia, was proposed in a bill today by Chairman Elliott of the House public buildings committee.

GERMANY AIDS CHINA PEACE

Berlin, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Foreign Office let it be known today the Foreign Minister, Dr. Julius Curtius, has assured Ambassador Sokolnikoff, Germany is in perfect accord with the United States in desiring that the Kellogg anti-war pact be translated into practical politics in connection with the Sino-Russian conflict.

He pointed out how throughout the period of Germany's protecting interests for both parties, Germany had tried to influence the situation along the same lines as the United States and would be happy to do so in the future.

STATE DETECTIVES GUARD POLLS IN NEWBURYPORT ELECTION

LOOKING FOR ILLEGAL VOTERS

Gills and Cashman Both Make Charges of Improper Registration

Special police and inside a guard of state detectives today in the highest contest of municipal and council elections in 15 Massachusetts cities.

Charges of illegal registration made by both Mayor Andrew J. Peters Gillis and former Mayor Michael Cashman, his opponent, resulted in the assignment of detectives by Hon. Atty. William G. Clark of Essex county.

Detectives Richard Griffin of Haverhill and William J. Murray of Lynn raised all the Newburyport police stations in which for nonresident voters' lists of whose names according to the claims by each side are on the lists.

HEAVY VOTE LIKELY

Despite bad conditions underfoot as a result of the storm, the voting in Newburyport was the heaviest in the city's history. It was predicted that 6500 of the 7700 registered would cast votes in the contest.

The retired red-headed Peters as a cyclone as ever as the polls opened, forecasting his return to office for two more years by a 3-1 vote.

"I said 2-1 if it snowed and 2-1 if it was fair. It snowed and it will be 3-1," he predicted.

In cities all the other cities where contests were being decided, the voting was reported very light.

OTHER CONTESTS

The largest vote in the history of the city, predicted for today's battle, depended upon the weather, and many felt that a larger number of ballots would be marked because of the interest in the election, even though some were kept indoors by the weather.

This morning, both sides, Cashman and Gillis, had checkers ready and the various voting precincts to scrutinize carefully the persons who applied for ballots, as the result of charges of false registration by both parties, that flown thick and fast during the past few days and which caused a probe by the district attorney's office by detectives.

The municipal and ward contests were held in Brockton, Chicopee, Holyoke, Marlboro, Northampton, Salem and Taunton, while a recount in Fall River, Leominster is anticipated as candidate there. Ward 9's school committee fight is reported in Gardner, Haverhill, Peabody, Fairhaven and Quincy.

Gloucester's present mayor, Henry Parsons, is opposed for election by Gilman Harvey and John F. Pino, the former a city councilor. There are 17 aldermanic candidates and four are seeking school committee positions.

Brockton is watching with interest for the result of the voting, where Mayor Edward A. Kent, Republican, being in a race with William H. Powers, nominated by the Democrats, who is reported to have made great strides in his campaign. Benjamin Perlin, an independent, is the third candidate there. There are two ward battles.

formerly of Chicago, was brought into the case by questioning of Flood. Mrs. Keyes is expected to testify, if called, that on the afternoon of Nov. 1 she had served drinks in Room 240 with a man she then knew as "Jack" but who she later learned was McManus, but the defense is expected to cross-examine McManus was in the room that day and obviate the necessity of Mrs. Keyes' appearance as a witness.

Flood testified also to the surrender of McManus. Detective Carides, since deposed, had been told that McManus would be waiting for him in a Bronx barber shop Nov. 27, 1928.

Carides found him there, being shaved. Flood said. While escorts to the district attorney's office. Flood met them and asked McManus:

"What do you know about the Rothstein case?"

"I don't know anything," he quoted McManus as saying. "I am as innocent of the crime as you are."

Murray then took Flood over for cross-examination and brought out that McManus so far as he knew, was not arrested until after his talk with Dist. Atty. Joab H. Banton, after Carides had taken him to the former's office.

"McManus surrendered himself voluntarily at the district attorney's office, didn't he?" Murray asked.

"Yes, I suppose so," Flood answered.

COLD AND RAIN COMING NEXT

A heavy fall was anticipated, less than one inch of snow fell.

The heaviest fall was in Crawford County, Pa., where 14 to 16 inches lay on the ground today. New York city reported four inches.

In Southern New Jersey the snow turned to rain and sleet, which froze and caused numerous accidents.

The heavy fall of snow in Boston was a surprise to local weather bureau officials, as they predicted a very light fall and said it would turn to rain.

Two deaths were reported early in the day as due to storm conditions. William H. Walsh, 65, of Quint ave., Allston, collapsed in the Park st. subway station and died before he could be removed to a hospital. He was believed to have succumbed to heart failure brought about by exertion in reaching the station.

In Lynn, T. Warren Bray, 72, believed to be the last hack driver of that city, dropped dead in the Boston and Maine station. It is said that he was overcome by exhaustion while walking in the snowstorm.

Traffic conditions were rated the most hazardous in 29 years. Jams were frequent in all parts of the city during the downward rush hours, and many motorists were endangered by drivers losing control of cars which suddenly hit the highways and crashed into ditches. Between Boston and Andover 15 cars were ditched. A score were disabled along the Neponset turnpike, while on nearly every thoroughfare there were accidents caused by the snow.

Despite frequent collisions, few auto operators were injured. One of the most serious accidents occurred in Roxbury, when Honorable Thomas Powers, 31, of Engine 14 was hauled from the running board of a fire department car into the street when the car was struck by a truck of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. Powers' left leg was broken in two places and his left thigh was lacerated. He was taken to the City Hospital.

Mayor Nichols after surveying reports ordered the mobilization of the street department forces to cope with the storm and within a short time tractors were manned and snow sheared began to fly in the downtown streets. Though the storm was unexpected the city was fully prepared and the principal streets in town were cleared of snow within a few hours after the department got under pressure.

More than 500 men were required by the Boston & Maine to remove the ice and snow. It was feared for a time that the heavy fall of snow would delay the operation of trains out of the North Station but the employes went at their job so efficiently the company succeeded in operating all trains out of Boston on schedule time.

COFFEE TAKES A DROP IN PRICE

The largest chain of food stores in the country has just announced a sharp reduction in the retail prices of coffee. The market of this commodity has suffered a severe decline during the last month as a result of over-production.

Prices have been maintained too high by government regulations of exports in Brazil. Bankers in London have been liberal lenders against surplus stocks. However, recent developments in the world's money markets have brought about a change in attitude.

Further credits are only available if self-liquidating, meaning that coffee must be sold within a determined length of time.

It is a recognized fact that agriculture throughout the world, needs protection to the extent that an orderly marketing may be assured.

Gangsters Wound Cop in Gun Fight

Kansas City, Dec. 3 (AP)—The guns of Kansas City gangsters, unimbered for the second time within 24 hours, barked in an exchange of fire with three patrolmen here last night, critically wounding C. H. Dingman, Jr., one of the officers.

The gangsters, three in number, who opened fire when the three policemen, riding in a district car, sought to question them, later were captured and gave their names as John Watson, Charles M. Curtis and Joe Hergen who is said to have been a member of a Chicago gang.

'DEAD' CHILD IS REVIVED BY FIREMEN

Charlestown "Oxygen Corps" Works Nearly Two Hours to Save Newborn Infant

Once again, today, the "Larson Lifesavers" of Rescue Co. No 3 of Court street, pulled a child back into the world of the living with oxygen tanks and inhalator.

Just as the squad of Lieut. Andrew Larson four times saved the life of little Nancy Caggiano of the North End two days ago, they brought back out of death's vale a new-born infant in the household of Joanna La Porta in Garden ct., North End.

The infant girl was born prematurely as Dr. Michele Nigro of Broadway, Revere, was racing for the bedie.

There was "not a feeble suspicion of heart action when the physician arrived. He set to work and used all known methods without machinery or mechanics, including mouth-to-mouth breathing with the infant in an attempt to start respiration.

When this failed, aid of the "Larson Lifesavers" was invoked and the firemen came racing through the dawn to the North End home of Mrs. La Porta.

With their oxygen tanks and inhalator, the rescue squad worked for an hour and 45 minutes before the infant girl's face twitched and she took a voluntary gasp.

In another few minutes, the child's thin wail first of its existence sounded through the tenement, and the color was well into its cheeks. The baby fell into a sleep, and several hours later was still in the slumber of a healthy, normal baby.

She Just Wants Daddy

Last Christmas little Helen Yeager, 4, saw her daddy for the last time. He left home on that day and since she has continually called for him. Now she is hoping that Santa Claus will bring him back and that once again he will rock her to sleep as was his custom. Helen was her daddy's favorite and her mother thinks that the little girl's appeal may reunite the family, so she, too, is praying that her missing husband may see this picture and be a real Santa Claus to his yearning child.

Hopes Santa Claus Brings Daddy Home

"Please, Daddy, come home." This is the plea of little four-year-old Helen Yeager, whose daddy left home last Christmas after a family quarrel.

Helen, who has just started to go to school, was her father's favorite. She continually cries for him at night, and misses him dreadfully.

Helen has two little sisters, Lorraine, 3, and baby Dorothy, who will soon be six months old. The missing father, Gideon M. Yeager of East 7th st., South Boston, has never seen his baby daughter.

The mother is struggling along on a small sum given by the city, but this just covers bare necessities.

The mother hopes the missing father will see the newspaper picture of his favorite daughter, and send her a Christmas present.

"If her daddy doesn't send her something for Christmas," said the mother, "Helen's heart will be broken."

Mrs. Yeager said she wants nothing for herself, although the struggle is hard. She wants toys and clothing for her youngsters.

"I was going to buy a ten-cent doll for Christmas," she confessed.

This is a case which should interest some "Goodfellow" who may either write to this newspaper or to the mother direct. Meanwhile, maybe "Daddy" will see his daughter's picture.

TIME TO BE A GOODFELLOW

ent hands against dark bedding.

Two undernourished children wide eyed, staring. And a woman who will not leave the bed until she is carried from it. A husband and father out somewhere "looking for a job." By and by his own weary feet will sound on the stairs outside and from the sound of his step the woman will know that jobs are still elusive.

She asks, now: "What do you want?"

What do we want?

WHAT DO YOU WANT?

WHAT DO YOU NEED? IS THERE ANYTHING YOU DO NOT NEED?

Up countless flights of stairs and into countless dingy rooms, where heartache and sorrow live, Goodfellows will go this Christmas season. Sorrow will be a little lighter for them. Children will be happy for them.

Are you a Goodfellow? If not, do you want to be one? Is there a family you would like to help, either on your own or through the Boston Evening American Goodfellow Editor? Do you want the address of a family to whom you may be a Goodfellow?

Last year Boston Evening American Goodfellows provided necessities and toys for more than 1000 families. In all Boston last year the families that needed Goodfellow outnumbered the Goodfellows by almost four to one.

It doesn't cost much time, effort or money to be a Goodfellow. Write the Goodfellow Editor if you want the address of a needy family. He has too many addresses. If you want a family in a particular district, say so, and you shall have it.

If you can't give time yourself and yet want to do something, send your check to the Goodfellow Editor and his assistants will be proud to see that you get the credit for you on the day before Christmas.

But be a Goodfellow some way.

WOMAN WINS IN 'HONOR LEAP' COURT CASE

Decision Holds Injury Sustained in Quitting Petter's Car Is Not Negligence

When a woman accepts an automobile ride from a man and then jumps from the car because of improper proposals and is injured, she can recover damages from the driver, according to a decision of the full bench of the Supreme Court today.

The court remanded the case of Mrs. Amelia Ciepliuski of Ludlow to the district court in Springfield for assessment of damages. The Supreme Court ruled that Judge Wallace B. Healy in district court erred in finding for the defendant. The Supreme Court ruled Mrs. Ciepliuski's leap from the automobile did not constitute contributory negligence.

In the suit brought by Mrs. Ciepliuski against Frank Stevens, who invited her to ride on his truck, Judge Heal ynad ruled she was guilty of contributory negligence and the appellate division upheld his ruling. The Supreme Court says both were wrong and that the finding should have been in her favor.

The Supreme Court further states that when the defendant's wrong is something more than mere negligence and has the element of wilful, reckless and wanton misconduct, contributory negligence is not a defense.

CAMBRIDGE MAN DIES OF BURNS

man torch as her nightgown blazed, leaped from the window of her bedroom, landing a few feet from her father on the snow-covered lawn beside the house. She was badly burned before neighbors could extinguish her nightgown.

Humbert and Romeo Ferrari were sleeping in an attic room, when they were also aroused by the barking of the dog. Romeo ran to his bedroom door and attempted to flee down the corridor. His pajamas became ignited. He rushed to the window and hurled himself out.

Firemen believe that the other brother also tried to reach the window but was overcome by smoke. His body, badly burned, was found near the window beside the bed, where he had collapsed.

Firemen fought their way to the attic bedroom and carried Humbert down stairs. He was rushed to the Cambridge City Hospital, but was found to be dead on arrival.

The fire was discovered by Miss Carolyn Higgins, 25, of 21 Notre Dame st., whose home is adjacent to the Ferrari home. Miss Higgins was awakened by the glare of flames through her bedroom window and without waiting to don a robe, she rushed, barefooted, out of the house and through the snow to sound an alarm.

Meanwhile, a passerby saw smoke pouring through the windows and ran to another box, sounding another alarm.

The first floor of the burning building was occupied by Miss Dora Langloy. She was awakened by the smoke that poured into her bedroom and fled to the street. She took refuge in the home of a neighbor.

Cause of the fire is undetermined. It is believed to have started in the lower part of the home. Damage was estimated at more than $4000.

Many other residences in the district were menaced by flying sparks, but the vigilance of firemen and snow-covered roofs prevented the flames from spreading.

DRY RAIDERS HAVE NO MORE 'SPEED' FOR YULETIDE RUM DRIVE

USE NO EXTRA EFFORT FOR HOLIDAYS

There Is More Liquor at Christmas and More Arrests, They Say

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Officials who enforce the prohibition law are getting hearty laughs these days out of stories from various parts of the country that drives to prevent increased trade in liquor at Christmas time are being made.

Drives against liquor at Christmas time are a myth that have never existed, officials say, because the Government is operating at its maximum every day in the year to enforce the prohibition laws. Officials assert there is no more liquor at Christmas than at any other time, but the wider use of it during the holiday season leads in their opinion to the belief that the traffic has increased.

THEY'RE NOT SPASMODIC

"The coast guard is enforcing the law against the smuggling of liquor and other goods every day in the year," Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant, said. "We could not increase our efforts at the holiday season because we are expending our every effort to uphold the laws 365 days every year and 366 in leap year."

"Drives against liquor at Christmas are myths," Prohibition Commissioner Doran asserted. "The prohibition bureau doesn't indulge in that sort of thing because we are constantly conducting the most intensive drive our forces will permit to enforce the prohibition laws."

"Customs service enforces the law the remainder of the year just as capably as we do at the holiday season," Frank Dow, assistant commissioner of customs, said. "We do not put on drives against smugglers at Christmas."

BOOTLEGS IN HURRY.

Every year about Christmas time stories are circulated in various parts of the country that one or the other of the enforcement agencies is conducting a drive to prevent the sale of large amounts of liquor.

Officials chuckle. The fact of the matter is, they say, smugglers and bootleggers get anxious to deliver the liquor to their customers and take more chances than at any other season, with the result that here and there the over-anxious dealers in the illicit beverage are nabbed a little faster than usual.

PRISON "HAPPY HOME" AT 77

Auburn, N. Y., Dec. 3 (INS)—After having spent 52 years of his life behind prison walls in the Mid-West, George Ferguson, 77, returned today to what he calls "home," the equally bleak walls of Auburn prison.

Ferguson was brought here from Plainsville, O., in the custody of Parole Officer Roy Hill.

"I'm the happiest man in the world," the old convict told Warden Edgar S. Jennings. "It's home for me."

Years ago Ferguson was sentenced to a term in Auburn for burglary and grand larceny in Queens County. Good behavior won him a parole but another violation of the law soon landed him behind the walls of Joliet prison. Several days ago he was released from Joliet.

He wandered about helpless and unable to work for a day or two; then remembering he had broken his Auburn parole he immediately wired prison officials to come after him.

Police Hunting New Clues in 'Ride' Murder and Children Who Found Body

TRACE BIG CARD GAME IN 'RIDE KILLING'

Police Learn Victim Had Won Large Sum Day Before He Was Slain

Westfield, Dec. 3—State Detective David Manning and Inspector William A. O'Brien today visited several places in the Main st. section of East Springfield, seeking the location of the last card game in which Samuel Viteralli, murder victim, took part.

It was learned that Viteralli, 47, a baker of Franklin st., Springfield, was a heavy winner in one of three games in East Springfield.

The hiding place, an investigation, set into the card game all night Friday, quitting about 3:30 on Saturday, police learned.

Sometime later he was taken for a ride in an automobile shot to death, and his body hurled out on City View rd., dragged across a tall fence and riddled down a hook.

TRACE CARD PLAYERS

Thus far the authorities have been unable to obtain any information as to who Viteralli's fellow players in the card game were.

Revelation of the card game also strengthened the theory of police that the killing was done by men with whom Viteralli had been friendly and with whom he readily agreed to go on the fatal ride.

Shortly after the identification, Springfield police went to a lodging house in Franklin st. and questioned Nicholas Damos, with whom the dead man is said to have roomed.

During a three-hour grilling, Damos told police that Viteralli was also known as Samuel Salvatore and Samuel Vaccrella. He said he had last seen his roommate early Saturday night, when Viteralli returned to their joint room after a long session at the cards.

Viteralli later left the house to purchase a stove, Damos said, but failed to return.

From Damos police also learned that Viteralli had amassed a fortune of $25,000 or $30,000, but in the last few months ill luck at the gaming tables had reduced this to $5000. A bankbook to that effect, found by police, substantiated this.

Although none of the men who made the identification knew the locale of the slaying or the names of other men who participated, police were convinced that the game played an important part in the slaying.

Viteralli, according to the four men, finished a large roll of bills last Saturday when he appeared at the bakery in Springfield where he was employed. Generally regarded as a vague possibility that the money might have been seen by strangers, who lured him on the fatal ride.

The more logical theory in police minds, however, was that Viteralli readily accepted the offer of automobile with men with whom he had been friendly men, probably, with whom he had played cards and won heavily.

Springfield detectives avowed here today that, as far as the question there was no doubt in official minds that the death riot started in Springfield. Viteralli was not seen by his friends or business associates Saturday night or Sunday.

It is believed that he met some of his gambling acquaintances, accepted their offer of a ride and went to his death. Four bullets were shot into his body.

URGES CHURCH JOIN FIGHT ON DRUGS

New York, Dec. 3—Asserting that the drug traffic is a menace, particularly alarming in America, Capt. Richard F. Hobson of the International Narcotic Education Association made a plea for church aid before clergymen gathered at a conference of the Greater New York Federation of Churches in the Marble Collegiate Church, Fifth ave. and Twenty-ninth st.

Although no action was taken, the opinion was repeatedly expressed by those who participated in two hours of discussion that the church is within its province in combating the drug evil because of the power of religion to cure addicts, but that the church, ignorant of the extent of the drug traffic, is lagging, in performance of its duty in this field.

In his address, Capt. Hobson said that it was recently brought to the attention of the judiciary committee of the House of Representatives that a recent estimate showed "90 per cent of our criminals use drugs to generate daring to commit crimes, with a resulting $5,000,000 economic burden upon the people."

"A stream of boys and girls," he continued, "as young as 14, is pointing into the underworld of our cities. It is estimated that 75,000 girls from all walks of life disappeared from the homes of America last year. Investigation has shown that most of the boys and girls and nearly all of the girls living in the underworld have come down the drug road. The boy drug addicts recruit the robber bands that create our crime wave with its daring hold-ups and cruel and unnatural crimes."

Capt. Hobson closed his address by urging the church to launch a three-fold program. First, rescue work to redeem addicts by urging them to embrace religion. Second, that clergymen throughout the city assist in making narcotic education week the last week in February effective by including the drug problem in their sermons for that week. Third, that Sunday school children be thoroughly taught the evils of the drug traffic and how it operates.

Girl Dives Into River; Pays Bet in Storm

Norwalk, Ct., Dec. 3 (AP)—Amid swirling snowflakes a figure in a bright bathing suit mounted the railing of the Washington st. bridge and, as passers-by gazed astounded, Miss Catherine Sherwood, store clerk, dived into the ice filled harbor, 30 feet below.

She had paid her bet.

Miss Sherwood wagered James Hawkes, a fellow employe, that the Pastime A. C. football team would beat the Springwoods on Thanksgiving. She lost.

While a snow storm raged she yielded to Hawkes' insistent jibes and decided to pay her bet. The assistant manager of the store drove her to the bridge and assisted her out of the water. She returned to the store, blue with the cold but highly enthusiastic.

But she did not count on a cold hearted manager. When he heard of the incident he discharged both Miss Sherwood and Hawkes.

CAVEMAN AGAIN FEELS JOYS OF CIVILIZATION

By BURT M. McCONNELL

Quebec, Que., Dec. 3—Stepping down the Washimeska with the shuffling loose-jointed stride that has carried Stefansson, my preceptor in exploration, over so many thousand miles of Arctic ice fields, I came to the forest rangers' cabin at the mouth of Pearl River about an hour after dark the day before Thanksgiving.

It was my rediscovery of the comforts of civilization. As I closed the little circular door of the stove I wondered how many of us appreciate these comforts.

The next was the canned meats. Here was food chuck full of heat units, something which the lean meat of a rabbit lacks. And rabbits had been my mainstay for more than two months in the North woods.

Then I sat back in the darkness with only the opening in the stove throwing fitful shadows on the log wall, like a locomotive firebox opened in the night.

I had traveled 18 miles the previous day and there still remained 24 to be covered on foot. My rate over the thin ice was never more than three miles an hour, although one can easily do four on land. So I started an hour after daylight and kept a lookout for McKibbin all the way to the point where a river entered the Washimeska from the right.

There, near the confluence, as the Indian cabin which I had noticed in September, with a grave near the river bank, the grave of a small child, marked with a cross. Unaccustomed to walking such long distances on the flinty surface of the Washimeska I was by this time thoroughly tired. One of my boots, moreover, was giving me trouble and I went up into the empty cabin and removed it and the moccasin and rabbit skin stocking.

Under the ball of my foot was a blister as large as a dime. I opened the blister, pressed out the water and sat down to watch for McKibbin. When it grew dark and he did not arrive I went outside and built a campfire which would be sure to attract his attention, even though he happened to be traveling on the opposite side of the river.

Half an hour later McKibbin handed me a telegram from Dr. Clarence Lieb, Stefansson's personal physician, of New York, to this effect: "Will you continue up proximate woods diet until I can give you physical examination upon your arrival?"

COURT IS TOLD HUBBY ACTED 'LIKE A BOY'

Brockton, Dec. 3—By his own mother, George E. McKee, Hull and Hingham garage proprietor was told he was acting "like a 15-year-old boy" toward his family according to a letter introduced today in probate court.

In test court Mrs. Gertrude McKee, daughter of Police Chief Frank Reynolds of Hull, is suing McKee for divorce on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment.

Judge Lyal D. Chamberlain took the petition under advisement.

The letter, purporting to have been written to McKee two years ago by his mother, was introduced as evidence by Mrs. McKee's counsel, John R. Maher.

In it the mother was declared to have advised her son to go back to his family so that he would not be "the talk of Hingham and Hull."

McKee was on the stand today and said that in his opinion, he should be "lord and master" of his own household.

Asked to expound on "lord and master," McKee said he meant that if he instructed his wife to have specific foods for dinner, these foods should be served and no other. Also, if he declared that his daughter should wash the dishes, she must wash them and not "run off to the movies."

POOL PERJURY CASE GOES TO JURY TODAY

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—The case of James J. Otis, formerly head of the Albany baseball pool, who is charged with perjury while appearing before a federal jury last year in connection with an investigation of the pool, is expected to go to the jury in federal court today.

Otis was indicted for perjury on three counts, a count for each of three occasions on which he appeared before the grand jury and Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe today eliminated the first count entirely and a part of the second, explaining that although the jury could be charged on the first count it would be futile to do so.

George 2 Medalie, defense attorney, in his summation said: "This case has been less a perjury trial than a prosecution of people inevitably connected with a pool of large size. Perhaps this is of tremendous public service. I do not share it, and if I am glad of it. It that has nothing to do with the perjury of my client."

Medalie declared the income-tax return filed by Otis in 1927, containing various items of expense for the pool. He said that although the Government had conducted a $4,000-to-gross return to the pool in 1927 and that $8,000 has not been accounted for, United States Attorney Charles D. Tuttle, Medalie said, implied that the sentence went to Dan O'Connell or to the Democratic organization in Albany. As a matter of fact, defense counsel said this $8,000 represented money expended.

The artists included Mrs. Florence Wheeler, Broadway Baptist Church organist, Cambridge; Mrs. Margaret C. Palmer, Weymouth, and Union Church organist; and Miss Daisy C. Scudder, organist of the First Parish Church, Watertown, all of whom are club members.

Miss Swaddens, Miss Alice Shepard and Miss Marion Payne have charge of these programs, the second of which will be held a week from Tuesday and devoted to Reminiscences of Bach and Handel. Miss Gertha Platt, Miss Agnes Hyrick and Mrs. Fred Bailey are tomorrow's hostesses.

BIG GARMENT STRIKE LOOMS

Approximately 2000 women garment workers will go out on strike in February in Boston shops if a resolution calling for a general strike in seven large garment centers of the country is adopted by the 20th biennial convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, now in session at Cleveland.

The strike is aimed to raise the standards of working conditions and wages for more than 1000 unorganized workers in Boston open shops, according to Miss Jane Mara, secretary of the joint board of Cloak and Dressmakers' Union, the Boston branch of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Sweat shops have sprung up with the rapid increase of new garment manufacturing shops within the past year," Miss Mara said today.

Hoover Seeks Model Dry Law for Capital

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—President Hoover would make the national capital the model of city law enforcement in the nation.

In so advising Congress today in his annual message, the urges legislation which would cause a more healthy respect for the prohibition laws in the District of Columbia.

While avoiding any direct reference to recent complaints voiced in the Senate about lax enforcement of the dry statutes in Washington, Mr. Hoover gives it as his opinion that "conditions here are much better than in many other cities."

But they are not such as to suit him, being as he says "far from perfect." He proposes no drastic remedy in the way of penalties or more machinery for spectacular drives. He wants the system corrected so as to lend wings to justice.

Part of the cause of present conditions is attributed to congestion of criminal cases in the supreme court of the District of Columbia, resulting in long delays in bringing cases to trial, with the ensuing difficulty of conviction.

"Furthermore, there is need for legislation in the District of Columbia supplementing the national prohibition act," he says, "more sharply defining and enlarging the duties and powers of the district commissioners (the governing body of Washington) and the police of the district, and opening the way for better cooperation in the enforcement of prohibition between the district officials and the prohibition officers of the federal government.

"It is urgent that these conditions be remedied."

Thus the precise remedies are left to Congress, individual members of which have taken the lead in criticising what they have termed the woeful lack of dry law enforcement.

WOULD MERGE VET BUREAUS

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Consolidation of all government agencies dealing with war veterans with the Veterans' Bureau would be authorized under a bill introduced today by Chairman Williamson of the House expenditures committee.

The President would be authorized by the measure to transfer the pension bureau from the Interior Department, and the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers to the jurisdiction of the Veterans Bureau.

Under the plan, annual expenditures of the government, amounting to $750,000,000, for relief and benefits to former members of the military and naval establishments would be placed under the direction of the Veterans' Bureau. Williamson said consolidation of veterans' activities had been under consideration by the committee for two years.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CANDY

Candy is perishable, and cannot be shipped all over the country from one factory. The finer the candy the more perishable it is. Page & Shaw candies are unique in being cooked at low temperature and made of peculiarly wholesome materials, so invalids and children can eat them freely.

Page & Shaw is the only concern operating on a zone system with its own shops and work rooms on both sides of the Atlantic and clear across this continent.

TRANSFER SYSTEM

Page & Shaw has an unique transfer system, whereby your order to deliver candy anywhere on this continent, or abroad, is forwarded to the local Page & Shaw branch or agency, which delivers the candy fresh and in perfect condition. The order has to do the travelling, rather than the candy.

THE ART OF GIVING

A gift should bring satisfaction twice, to him that gives, and him that receives. Its merit will be known to both. Page & Shaw Candies have been famous for nearly fifty years because they possess that charm of flavor which only master craftsmen, using the world's finest materials, can produce. HOOVER TO DIRECT SIGNING OF WORLD COURT PROTOCOL BY U.S.

TAX CUT AND NEW TARIFF LAW URGED

Reduction in National Defense Expenses Among Other Recommendations

...our signature be affixed to the protocol of adherence and shall submit it for the approval of the Senate.

"We have joined in conference with Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan to be held in London in January to consider the further limitation and reduction of naval arms. We hold high hopes that success may attend this effort.

TAX REDUCTION

"Our Army and Navy are being maintained in a most efficient state under officers of high intelligence and zeal.

"We can well be deeply concerned, however, at the growing expense.

"I recommend that Congress give earnest consideration to the possibilities of prudent action which will give relief from our continuously mounting expenditures.

"The finances of the Government are in sound condition. The estimate submitted to me by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Budget Director indicates that the Government will close the fiscal year 1930 with a surplus of about $255,000,000 and the fiscal year 1931 with a surplus of about $127,000,000.

"I believe the Congress will be fully justified in giving the benefits of the prospective surpluses to the taxpayers, particularly as ample provision for debt reduction has been made in both years through ordinary revenues.

"I recommend that the normal income tax rates applicable to the incomes of individuals for the calendar year 1929 be reduced from 6, 3 and 1½ per cent. to 4, 2 and ½ per cent, and that the tax on the income of corporations for the calendar year 1929 be reduced from 12 to 11 per cent.

CRASH OF STOCKS

"The country has enjoyed a large degree of prosperity and sound progress during the past year.

"The long upward trend, however, gave rise to over-optimism as to profits, which translated itself into a wave of uncontrolled speculation in securities, resulting in the diversion of capital from business to the stock market and the inevitable crash.

"Fortunately, the federal reserve system had taken measures to strengthen the position against the day when speculation would break, which, together with the strong position of the banks has carried the whole credit system through the crisis without impairment.

"The sudden threat of unemployment and especially the recollection of the economic consequences of previous crashes under a much less secured financial system created unwarranted pessimism and fear.

"I have, therefore, instituted a tentative, voluntary measure of co-operation with the business institutions and with State and municipal authorities to make certain that fundamental businesses of the country shall continue as usual.

"Wages should remain stable. A very large degree of industrial unemployment and suffering which would otherwise have occurred has been prevented. Agricultural prices have reflected the returning confidence. The measures taken must be vigorously pursued until normal conditions are restored.

THE TARIFF

"The special session of Congress was called to expedite the fulfillment of party pledges of agricultural relief and the tariff. The pledge of farm relief has been carried out.

"I have been most anxious that the broad principle of the flexible tariff as provided in the existing law should be preserved and its delays in action avoided by more expeditious methods of determining the costs of production at home and abroad, with executive authority to promulgate such changes upon recommendation of the Tariff Commission after exhaustive investigation.

"Under various acts of Congress $300,000,000 has been authorized for public buildings and the land upon which to construct them, $75,000,000 for the District of Columbia and $225,000,000 for the country at large. It would be helpful in the present economic situation if such steps were taken as would enable early construction work.

"The Federal Power Commission is now comprised of three Cabinet officers, and the duties involved far exceed the time and attention these officials can properly afford from other important duties. I recommend that authority be given for the appointment of full-time commissioners to replace them.

POWER CONTROL

"It is also desirable that the authority of the commission should be extended to certain phases of power regulation. The nature of the electric utilities industry is such that about 90 per cent of all power generation and distribution is intrastate in character, and most of the States have developed their own regulatory systems as to certificates of convenience, rates, and profits of such utilities. To encroach upon their authorities and responsibilities would be an encroachment upon the rights of the States. There are cases, however, of interstate character beyond the jurisdiction of the States.

"To meet these cases it would be most desirable if a method could be worked out by which initial action may be taken between the commissions of the States whose tariff action should be made effective by the Federal Power Commission with a reserve to act on its own motion in cases of disagreement or nonaction by the States.

"It is most desirable that the question of Muscle Shoals should be disposed of.

"It is my belief that such parts of these plants as would be useful and the revenues from the remainder should be dedicated for all time to the farmers of the United States for investigation and experimentation on a commercial scale in agricultural chemistry.

"I do not favor operation by the government of either power or manufacturing business except as an unavoidable by-product of some other major public purpose.

"The Secretary of the Interior is making satisfactory progress in negotiation of the very complex contracts required for the sale of Boulder Dam power. These contracts must assume the return of all government outlays upon the project. I recommend that the necessary funds be appropriated for initiation of this work as soon as the contracts are in the hands of Congress.

ON PROHIBITION

"The enforcement of the laws enacted to give effect to the 18th amendment is far from satisfactory and this is in part due to the inadequate organization of the administrative agencies of the Federal government.

"The subject has been earnestly considered by the Law Enforcement Commission and the administrative officials of the government. Our joint conclusions are:

"First, there should be an immediate concentration of responsibility and strengthening of enforcement agencies of the Federal government by transfer to the Department of Justice of the Federal functions of detection and to a considerable degree of prosecution, which are now lodged in the Prohibition Bureau in the Treasury; and at the same time the control of the distribution of industrial alcohol and legalized beverages should remain in the Treasury.

"Second, provision should be made for relief of congestion in the Federal courts by modifying and simplifying the procedure for dealing with the large volume of petty prosecutions under various Federal acts.

"Third, there should be a codification of the laws relating to prohibition to avoid the necessity which now exists of resorting to more than 25 statutes enacted at various times.

"The District of Columbia should be the model of city law enforcement in the nation. While conditions here are much better than in many other cities, they are far from perfect, and this is due in part to the congestion of criminal cases in the Supreme Court of the District, resulting in long delays.

"No one will look with satisfaction upon the volume of crime of all kinds and the growth of organized crime in our country. It is the most serious issue before our people.

"Under the authority of Congress I have appointed a national commission on law observance and enforcement, for an exhaustive study of the entire problem.

"Pending further legislation, the Department of Justice has been striving to weed out inefficiency wherever it exists, to stimulate activity on the part of its prosecuting officers, and to use increasing care in examining into the qualifications of those appointed to serve as prosecutors.

"However much we may perfect the mechanism, still if the citizen who is himself dependent upon some laws for the protection of all that he has and all that he holds dear, shall insist on selecting the particular laws which he will obey, he undermines his own safety and that of his country.

"His attitude may obscure, but it cannot conceal the ugly truth that the lawbreaker, whoever he may be, is the enemy of society.

We can no longer gloss over the unpleasant reality which should be made vital in the consciousness of every citizen, that he who condones or traffics with crime, who is indifferent to it and to the punishment of the criminal, or to the lax performance of official duty, is himself the most effective agency for the breakdown of society.—From President Hoover's message to Congress on Law Enforcement.

Hoover Lashes 'Dry' Law Offenders

THE orderly administration of the law involves more than the mere machinery of law enforcement. The efficient use of that machinery and a spirit in our people in support of law are alike essential. We have need for improvement in both.

However much we may perfect the mechanism, still if the citizen who is himself dependent upon some laws for the protection of all that he has and all that he holds dear, shall insist on selecting the particular laws which he will obey, he undermines his own safety and that of his country.

His attitude may obscure, but it cannot conceal, the ugly truth that the lawbreaker, whoever he may be, is the enemy of society.

We can no longer gloss over the unpleasant reality which should be made vital in the consciousness of every citizen, that he who condones or traffics with crime, who is indifferent to it and to the punishment of the criminal, or to the lax performance of official duty, is himself the most effective agency for the breakdown of society.—From President Hoover's message to Congress on Law Enforcement.

Points to Cut in Army Posts and Navy Yards

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Behind a 2-word sentence in President Hoover's annual message on the state of the Union lie the elements of drama for Congress.

Inconspicuously placed at the end of a long section devoted to national defense appear these words:

"I recommend that Congress give earnest consideration to the possibilities of prudent action which will give relief from our continuously mounting expenditures."

This prudent action contemplates a survey of the field of army posts and navy yards with a view to the elimination of those which no longer are needed for the purpose of defensive purposes to which the United States has committed the use of its armed forces under the treaty renouncing war as an instrument of national policy. It also takes into account an actual reduction in the land forces and reserves.

High Lights in Message

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Here are some outstanding passages in President Hoover's annual message to Congress:

Our adherence to the International Court is, as now constituted, not the slightest step toward entry into the League of Nations. As I have before indicated, I shall direct that our signature be affixed to the protocol of adherence and shall submit it for the approval of the Senate with a special message at some time when it is convenient to deal with it.

"The test of the rightfulness of our decisions is whether we have sustained and advanced the ideals of the American people.

We need to re-establish faith that the highest tribunal of our country are served by insistence upon swift and even-handed administration of justice in all offenders, whether rich or poor.

The first duty of the President under his oath is to secure the enforcement of the laws.

Our laws are made by the people themselves; theirs is the right to work for their repeal; but until repeal it is an equal duty to observe them and demand their enforcement.

President Will Order World Court Entry

Washington, Dec. 3—President Hoover, in his message to Congress today on adherence to the World Court, said:

IN January, 1926, the Senate gave its consent to adherence to the Court of International Justice with certain reservations. In September of this year the statute establishing the court has, by the action of the nation's signatory, been amended to meet the Senate's reservations and to go even beyond those reservations to make clear that the court is a true international court of justice.

I believe it will be clear to everyone that no controversy or question in which this country has or claims an interest can be passed on by the court without our consent at the time the question arises. The doubt about advisory opinions has been completely safeguarded. Our adherence to the international court is, as now constituted, not the slightest step toward entry into the League of Nations.

As I have before indicated, I shall direct that our signature be affixed to the protocol of adherence and shall submit it for the approval of the Senate with a special message at some time when it is convenient to deal with it.

Hoover Asks Stronger 'Dry' Enforcement

original House bill with its high and general increases in industrial rates.

ASKS FLEXIBLE TARIFF.

He quoted at some length from his message to the special session last April on the tariff, said he saw no reason to change his views as therein expressed, and only added that "it would be most helpful if action should be taken at an early moment."

He did say, however, he wanted the flexible provision maintained. The Senate has knocked out that provision in the pending bill, in defiance of his wishes.

In concluding his message the President said:

"The test of the rightfulness of our decisions must be whether we have sustained and advanced the ideals of the American people: self-government in its foundations of local government; justice whether to the individual or to the group; ordered liberty; freedom from domination; equality of opportunity and equality of opportunity; the initiative and individuality of our people; prosperity and the lessening of poverty; freedom of public opinion, education; advancement of knowledge; the growth of religious spirit; the tolerance of all faiths; the foundations of the home and the advancement of peace."

SILENCE CODE IS BROKEN IN JAIL MURDER

Cousins, N. Y., Dec. 3 (INS)—The traditional criminal's "code of silence" had been broken at Sing Sing today in what courts considered an inmate attack by other prisoners on a youthful white prisoner.

As a result one negro convict was in solitary confinement charged with the first-degree murder of 17-year-old Reuben Kaminsky, and two others were held as accessories. Kaminsky, with five knife wounds in his face and body, stumbled from his place in a lineup of 1200 convicts yesterday and crumpled to the ground, dead.

The convict directly charged with the murder is James Steele, 23, known as a violent, bad-man and notorious for his infractions of prison rules, the most serious of which was a fight with Kaminsky last July. A search of his cell revealed blood stains on his clothes.

The other two negroes held in solitary confinement are John Harris, 28, and William Green, 27, both from New York. Prison officials said Harris was with Steele just before the murder and a table knife, sharply ground, was found in his cell.

Strangely Slain

CANADA SAYS 'LET U. S. STOP FLOW OF RUM'

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 2 (AP)—Justices of the appellate division of the Ontario Supreme Court today made it plain they agree with those legal authorities in Canada who consider the exportation of liquor from the Dominion for the United States to be lawful.

The judges caustically were mid-during argument on an appeal from Justice Raney's decision dismissing an action for $18,653 claimed due on a bootlegg.

"On what ground did the judge dismiss your action?" Judge Latchford asked counsel for the appellant.

"That there was no security, that the government of Canada had been defrauded of income tax and that liquor had been imported into the United States," replied counsel.

"Since when did the last become illegal in Canada?" asked Justice Riddell.

"By Mr. Justice Raney it is illegal, but by the first appellate court legal," remarked Justice Masten.

"Let them stop the importation. That is their business," said Justice Riddell.

Judgment on the appeal was reserved.

Says "Truth Serum" Violates Cuba Law

Havana, Dec. 3 (AP)—Confessions obtained through injections of "truth serum" were old today to be unconstitutional and in violation of private rights by Dr. Jose Aybar, director of the Cuban Anthropological Bureau.

The "truth serum"—known to science as "scopolamina"—is said to have the effect of compelling persons subjected to its injections to tell the truth.

Dr. Aybar said that under military law 109 of the Cuban courts no person shall be compelled to testify in criminal cases where he is the defendant. He said the law further prohibits forcing defendants to answer questions. He therefore maintains that use of "truth serum" is contrary to law.

Rail Head Faces Court in Coal "Plot"

Columbus, Dec. 3 (AP)—D. P. Goldemann, president of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad, faced a hearing before Federal Judge Kenesaw Mough today on charges that the railroad falsely billed shipments of coal.

The indictments against Rudemann and the railroad contain 25 counts, alleging that coal was billed to a fictitious designation over another railroad connecting with the D. T. & I. and that the rates were split between the two roads.

Fire Inspectors to Enter Homes

After a heated discussion, the Everett Common Council passed an order which empowered the fire prevention bureau to enter and inspect three-family houses which may constitute a fire menace, and to regulate the parking of automobiles in driveways near houses at night.

Fire Comr. James F. Reynolds testified that Councilman Sweeney told him last summer that the fire prevention measures should be passed, but not until a new mayor was in office. Sweeney rose to his place and gave Reynolds the lie.

REPORT POWER ACCOUNTS 'WATERED'

Washington, Dec. 3 (INS)—Existence of nearly $60,000,000 of alleged "water" in investment accounts of the Niagara Falls Power Company has been revealed in a hitherto unpublished report of Federal Power Commission accounts.

This company, prominent in the New York state water power fight recently has become a part of the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation and the giant Morgan group.

In the form of Power Commission accounting that has thrown its weight behind the accounting division's conflicts with power trust forces and with other officials of the commission the report has been withheld from Congress.

It shows that:

A $77,671,000 appraisal filed by the Niagara Falls Company "appears to have represented not more than $26,500,000 of actual investment."

One of its predecessor companies, apparently by a mere change of name, ran up its "investment" account from $4,000,000 to nearly $18,000,000.

"Many millions of dollars carried in the plant investment account did not represent actual investment either by the company or by its predecessors," in the words of the accountants.

Property that had been abandoned and demolished was still carried in whole or in part in the plant investment account.

Woman With Many Jobs Happy at 82

Cromwell, Ct., Dec. 3 (AP)—Another milestone in the busy life of Miss Kate Ralph will be reached tomorrow. Her 82nd birthday will be observed as usual, in all probability, at her work in the J. & E. Stevens Co., toy manufacturers, where she has been employed for 65 years. She paints toys.

Daily she walks three miles to the factory and then peddles newspapers. Home again at night, she has a farm to look after before she calls it a day. A brother and sister live with her.

CONVICT YOUNG WOMAN OF SALE IN LIQUOR CASE

South Paris, Me., Dec. 3 (AP)—Annie F. Downs, comely and attractive young South Portland woman, was sentenced to six months in the Oxford County jail and fined $500 and costs today on conviction of charges of sale and transportation of liquor.

She was arraigned on selling one quart of alcohol to Abraham Riley of Oxford.

Miss Frank Bailey and Elsworth Field, both of Oxford, also last week. Authorities said the deaths resulted from a drinking party at the Riley home, where the alcohol purchased by Riley was dispensed.

Harry M. Shaw, Oxford County treasurer, as counsel for Miss Downs, appealed from the sentence and bail was fixed by Trial Justice Albert D. Park at $500 on each charge. The bond was furnished by the girl's father, Theodore I. Downs, farmer and timberland owner, and Sadie Downs of Mexico.

If You Want Job in Crain's Office Say So

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Thomas C. T. Crain, who for many years has sat in the inner councils of the Tammany chieftains, today invited members of the bar, regardless of their political affiliation, to get in touch with him if they want jobs in his office when he becomes district attorney of New York county, January 1.

Mr. Crain, a former justice of the Supreme Court, was elected in November, to succeed Joab H. Banton. Five members of Mr. Banton's staff have announced they will resign when he leaves office.

Date Sticks

good for youngsters

(Mixing time: 10 minutes)

One mother I know realizes that her children need sweets. So she provides home-made confections like these Date Sticks which satisfy the craving for sweets in a wholesome way. As nearly as possible all of the fuss and bother have been kitchen-tested out of Crisco recipes and a satisfaction added—the satisfaction of using a modern shortening which lends its own fresh flavor to the foods made with it.

½ cup Crisco
1½ cups sugar
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
½ teaspoon soda
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup chopped nut meats
1 cup cut dates
powdered sugar

Mix Crisco and sugar well. Add sour milk which has been mixed with soda. Then add flour which has been sifted with salt and baking powder, and fold in nuts and dates. Pour into shallow Crisco-ed pan and bake 20 minutes in moderate (350° F.) oven. Cut into narrow slices while still warm and roll in powdered sugar. These cookies will take the place of less wholesome sweets for the children.

This recipe has been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

Taste Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor

You taste milk. You test eggs. Now, taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Then you'll understand why Crisco's own sweet, fresh flavor so improves the taste of your cakes, pies, hot breads, cookies and fried foods.

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

FLIERS IN HUNT FOR MAIL PILOT

Clarion, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—A search by air for Thomas P. Nelson, missing New York to Cleveland air mail pilot was renewed today in a snow storm that blanketed the wooded, mountainous country where the flier was lost, to a depth of six inches.

Five planes took off from the Clarion airport this morning to hunt over the territory covered by the air mail route from Bellefonte, Pa., to Cleveland. Weather reports indicated the weather would clear up somewhat, but visibility was expected to be bad throughout today.

There was no definite report of Nelson after he passed Brockville on his way westward to Cleveland shortly after midnight Monday.

Hundreds of persons were enlisted in the search for the airman.

$500,000 LOSS IN SHIP FIRE

Philadelphia, Dec. 3 (AP)—With its cargo destroyed by fire, the Holland-American line steamship Binnendijk reated today on the bottom of the Delaware river in 33 feet of water, while firemen continued to fight the flames that swept its decks.

Early today as the tanker sunk at an angle of 25 degrees, the ship's captain estimated the damage to vessel and cargo at $500,000.

The ship, a 4200-ton vessel, was to have sailed from this city yesterday, but due to bad weather Capt. Bubse postponed the sailing. The fire is believed to have been smoldering in the cargo of linseed oil and linseed cake for several hours.

The Binnendijk arrived here a week ago from Rotterdam via Boston.

Would Pipe Gas of Coal Afire in Mines

Waterloo, Ia., Dec. 3 (AP)—Plans to cover a process for burning coal underground and piping the resultant gas to the surface have been applied for by Leo Ranney, well known in coal and oil refining circles.

Ranney explained that by controlling the burning coal, either petroleum or carbon dioxide may be produced. From the former, he said, can be refined gasoline, while from the latter, dry ice can be manufactured—both at low cost.

It was further explained that the gas can be piped to the consuming area or burned at the mouth of the mine and transformed into electricity.

While he did not reveal the workings of his process specifically, Ranney said the first production work would start either in Illinois or Pennsylvania.

Ranney is the inventor of a system whereby oil fields abandoned as completely drained can be made to yield further through the drying of subterranean sands.

Pudding Ship Coming

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—The plum pudding of old England is to be on many American tables Christmas. The liner Majestic is bringing a consignment of several thousand.

The two men who arrived here are Don Goodwin of Hamilton, Ont., mechanic, who is suffering from badly frozen feet, and Richard Pearce of Toronto, editor of the Northern Miner.

Girl Makes Complete Outfit for $20.80

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—A complete outfit—hat, shoes, lingerie and ensemble—costing only $20.80, has won for Jeanette Gamble, 17-year-old Coffeyville, Kan., girl, the championship in the national girls' style contest. Girls from 23 states entered the contest, which was part of the annual congress of Four-H Club.

The dominent color of Miss Gamble's outfit was brown. Some of it she made herself, the rest was ready-to-wear.

Her ensemble included a brown cardigan jacket, ivory colored blouse, brown and ivory checked skirt, all made by herself at a cost of $8.80; a brown hat for which she paid $4, brown shoes that cost the same; ivory hose costing $1.35, and lingerie she made at a cost of $2.65.

SERVICE

In the Ford Motor Company we emphasize service equally with sales ϒ It has always been our belief that a sale does not complete the transaction between us and the buyer, but establishes a new obligation on us to see that his car gives him service ϒ We are as much interested in your economical operation of the car as you are in our economical manufacture of it ϒ This is only good business on our part ϒ If our car gives service, sales will take care of themselves ϒ For that reason we have installed a system of controlled service to take care of all Ford car needs in an economical and improved manner ϒ We wish all users of Ford cars to know what they are entitled to in this respect, so that they may readily avail themselves of this service.

FROM the very beginning, SERVICE has been the corner-stone of the Ford business. Far back in 1908, when the first Model T Fords were made, there were few people who understood the operation of an automobile and fewer places to which the purchaser might turn for help when repairs were needed.

Frequently in those days, Mr. Ford would deliver the car personally to the new owner and see to it that some arrangements were made to keep it in good running order. Usually he would find the best informed mechanic and explain the construction of the car to him. Sometimes, when no such mechanic was available, the town blacksmith would be pressed into service.

Then, as the business grew, capable men were appointed, in a widening circle of towns, to devote their entire time to the care of Ford cars. These men worked under close factory supervision and according to certain set standards.

For just as the Ford Motor Company was the pioneer in the making of "a strong, simple, satisfactory automobile at a low price," so it was also the pioneer in establishing complete and satisfactory service facilities.

For the first time in the automobile business it became possible for the purchaser of a car to buy parts quickly and readily and to have repairs made at a reasonable cost. Where formerly it had been the accepted practice to charge the highest possible prices for these repairs, a new policy was instituted for the protection of the owner. The unusual character of Ford Service was soon recognized as one of the outstanding features of the car.

Today there are more than eight thousand Authorized Ford Dealers in the United States alone, with thousands of others located throughout the world. Their mechanics have been trained in special schools conducted by the Ford Motor Company and they have been equipped with all the latest service machinery.

The well-ordered cleanliness of the shops and salesrooms and the uniform courtesy of all dealer employees are particularly appreciated by the woman motorist.

Wherever you live, or wherever you go, you will find the Ford dealer prompt and business-like in his work, fair in his charges, and sincerely eager to do a good and thorough job at all times.

His constant effort is to relieve you of every detail in the care of your car and to help you get thousands upon thousands of miles of satisfactory, enjoyable motoring at a very low cost per mile.

That is the purpose for which the Ford car was designed and built. That is the true meaning of Ford Service.

RAISE FUND FOR NEWFOUNDLAND TIDE VICTIMS

To aid the stricken population of Burin peninsula in Newfoundland, which suffered heavily from the recent tidal wave, a relief fund has been opened in Boston at the Bank of New South.

Contributions will also be received at the office of the Newfoundland Weekly, at 202 Washington st., and forwarded to the proper authorities in Newfoundland.

Detailed accounts of the havoc caused and daily to the toll taken. Besides the large loss of life, dwelling houses, stores and other buildings were destroyed, fuel and provisions needed for the winter were swept away, and the fishing industries of the peninsula, the mainstay of its inhabitants, is crippled and at a standstill.

Jewels of St. Peter's Found

Rome, Dec. 3—Recovery of some of the jewels, valued at $1,500,000, stolen from St. Peter's in 1925, has been announced by police here.

The recovered loot includes the famous Episcopal ring of St. Peter, studded with sapphires and diamonds, two valuable pearls and two emeralds. They were stolen with many other precious objects, by thieves who broke into St. Peter's treasury, forcing the door of a storeroom.

Eduardo Brunelli, arrested at the time of the robbery, but later released, was shadowed to his home by detectives. The Episcopal ring was found in the kitchen. Brunelli confessed that he had sold the other gems and they were traced.

Joan Crawford Hurt

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 3 (AP)—Skidding while leading a close motor race, Joan Crawford, film actress, today was suffering from a badly scratched ankle.

HADDOCK, COD PRICES RISE AT FISH PIER

The smallest day's receipts in many months sent fish prices soaring today at the Fish Pier.

The total of 137,700 pounds included 70,000 of haddock, 17,500 of large cod, 7200 market cod and 63,000 mixed fish.

An unheard of quantity claimed hake line honors for the day, the 29,500 pounds of fish in the holds of the schooner Julia. The schooner Leonardo finished her trip with a mere 2600 pounds.

Fishermen reported the weather on the banks the worst they had seen in years for the month of November.

Wholesalers quoted the following: Large cod 11c to 12½, market cod 8½ to 9½, haddock 11½ to 12½, pollock 3½ to 6½, hake 7½ to 8½, cusk 4½ to 5½, lemon soles 14 to 16 and gray soles 13 to 15 cents per pound.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

An Open Letter to all who receive Christmas Savings Fund Checks

Today—or tomorrow at the latest—a real thrill is coming your way. If you are one of the thousands who have been putting aside weekly savings into a Christmas Savings Fund, you will receive a check for a lump sum of sufficient size to help Santa Claus bring Christmas cheer to your home.

We congratulate you on the thought that prompted you to start last year to "Save for Next Christmas." The check which you will receive today or tomorrow from some bank will bring you happiness.

You deserve it.

No doubt, there was many a time when even though the amount was small that you had to put away, you had a hard time meeting the issue.

But you did it. You showed that small obstacles meant nothing to you—that you could override them. You sowed seeds early in the year—you cultivated the ground throughout the year—and now you are reaping the harvest by receiving a nice Christmas Savings Check.

The next big question is—"What are you going to do with your Christmas money?" You used good judgment in saving it. May we suggest to you that you use just as good judgment in spending it. Of course, it is your money—yours to do with as you like—but would it not be wonderful if you could buy with it (or part of it) a gift that would bring pleasure, not only to yourself, but to all of your family—a gift that would last, not only during the Christmas Season, but for many years to come—a gift that would never grow tiresome nor old? That gift is a Majestic Radio whose colorful tone, whose unlimited powers to bring in any sort of program that fits your mood, will thrill you and others at Christmas and throughout long winter nights to come. In fact, winter and summer, it would be a continuous source of pleasure, offering an endless variety of entertainment and instruction.

Near you there is a Majestic dealer who will send you one of these Mighty Monarchs of the Air for a free home demonstration—who will guarantee to deliver a Majestic to you Christmas Eve or Christmas morning as a happy gift that you can always be proud of.

And please remember that a very small down payment is all that is needed to put this wonderful gift in your home.

Conscience Fund Gains at Christmas

Editor Boston American:

For some reason or other, as an annual psychogical I keep an eye peeled to see how well the Boston Conscience Fund is progressing. Only Hall I believe always reserves a special niche to place that fund. A year ago, there were many contributions than have come in this year, so a friend who knows whispers in my ear. Always around Christmas someone feels an itching sensation in his conscience and then the fun swells. It is a good thing to keep the conscience oiled. There are people who prefer the spur of the moment do things that they can not do when in a calm meditative mood, hence come these conscience shocks.

Has High Praise for "Goodfellows"

Editor Boston American:

May I say a word in commendation of being a "Goodfellow," in anticipation of Christmas. Your paper has done much good in the deepest in the past. Thousands of children and parents have been cheered by this agency of doing good.

It is the best way to work the Golden Rule. To get some one better off to do a kind act for those less fortunate at this season yields the blessing to those who give as well as those who receive.

There is no undertaking that pays better than to make some one happy at Christmastide. Newspapers could not be interested in any movement that shows them to better advantage. It is the art of being kind that Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox wrote of in your paper some years ago before her lamented death.

AMATO AND LISSETSKAYA SHARE HONORS AT HUB OPERA'S FIRST NIGHT

'GIOCONDA' IS INITIAL OFFERING

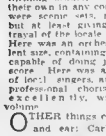
By MONES SMITH

A DREAM of Boston opera lovers that has been shattered by disillusionment many times in the last decade and a half, was finally realized with the performance of Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," by the Boston Grand Opera Company at the Boston Opera House last night.

A Boston audience saw and heard a Boston company present a grand opera worthy of the name. The elements raged without, and conspired to keep down the attendance, but they could not eclipse the surprising brilliance of the performance.

For the curtain had not been up long before it was evident that here, for the first time since the war, with the exception of sundry visits of the Chicago Opera Company, "grand' opera was being given something like adequate presentation. Here were vices, in some cases of thrilling beauty, worthy to be in their own in any company. Here were scenic sets, not beautiful but at least giving a fair portrayal of the locale of the drama. Here was an orchestra of excellent size, containing 55 players capable of doing justice to the score. Here was a large chorus of local singers, augmented by professional choristers, singing excellently, with sufficient volume.

OTHER things caught the eye and ear: Carlo Peroni, at the conductor's stand, giving coherence and life to the performance by dint of his long experience and musical insight; an intelligent stage direction and artistic management, which, despite an occasional flaw, pardonable in a first night, were a credit to the house of Pasquale Amato; reasonably good ballet which made notables last night, but which apparently has the stuff with which to improve.



Mary Barron

AS to the singers themselves and most people are interested in the singers, this was almost all new to Boston, culled from many countries and from many theaters. Two who have been heard here are Mr. Amato and Mme. Lissetskaya, but the latter is still going as has the finished artist of the past few years. Indeed! Naturally and unquestionably the per- [illegible] by the sheer power of artistry he made the tenor, Pippo Kosloff, a man in [illegible] Mme. Lissetskaya's second lover. And we mean Mme. to the adorable Mary Lindell is a no less distinguished by a master of the art.

QUITE as inspiring was the beauty of Anne Lissetskaya's voice in the title of La Gioconda. [illegible] Though not so adept in stage business as Mr. Sheyman, he is effective. But the histrionic highlight of the music is Zani Pyne [illegible] Jocondo. Worn more with [illegible] done with a fine touch as ever [illegible] her name is mentioned. She all but steals the show, in this a comedienne as she is the tragic operatic. Other excellent ones are George Rumpf as the valet, Mack, Swain as the hotel owner and Harry Stubbs as the policeman-waiter. Betty Price Pan, Bronson is mighty refreshing and fairly well, much better than Miss Stanwyck. Wilson Deed, who is not that other William of Pop Concert [illegible] and other pieces, is splendid as the husband.

ON stage the State has another tiptop show. Headliner is Lou Holtz, star of musical comedy, another good act is that of Deno and Rochelle. Mr. Miller croons in his popular manner as his Stateonians play. Special mention must be made of the splendid program of organ music by Mr. Rogers, beginning with the ballet from the Henry VIII suite, Charles King stars in a tuneful technicolor revue, and Jessie Middleton Dean is as usual of superior merit.

TONIGHT opera is "La Traviata" Dorothy Speare Boston operatic singer and pub lic [illegible] sings the title role.

Brilliant Crowd Out for Opera Opening

THE BOSTON GRAND OPERA COMPANY opened here last night with the singing of Ponchielli's lovely Venetian opera, "La Gioconda," and was received by an enthusiastic audience. The first tier of boxes were filled with charmingly gowned society women and their escorts.

Among these was Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller of Beacon st., wife of the Republican governor, who had with her Miss Pauline Danforth. Mrs. Curtis Guild had as guest Mr. and Mrs. Vittorio Orlandini and their attractive debutante daughter, Miss Laetitia Orlandini. In another box were Mrs. Frederick S. Whitwell of Marlborough st., and Mrs. and Miss Cox. Lieut. Gov. William Sterling Youngman and Mrs. Youngman (Helen L. Terza) and Mrs. Herbert E. Terza were also in attendance. Mrs. Fuller was wearing an opera hat, when the Metropolitan honored Boston about a decade ago, was Mrs. James Hopkins of Marlborough st., attired in a black dress and a glistening shawl.

MR. AND MRS W. J. DE HAUTEVILLE BELL, of Commonwealth ave., were also in attendance. Mrs. Bell, who was gowned in black, was before her marriage to Mr. Bell nearly a half years ago, Mrs. Albert J. Whittier. Another whose prefer ence in evening dresses was also black is Mrs. John Paulding Meade, who was with Mr. Meade and a couple of friends. Members of the younger set included Miss Jane Strickland of Brookline and Miss Susan Morse, the former frocked in gold with a fur trimmed wrap of salmon velvet. Miss Morse was in black brocade and placed with other well known delusions. At any rate, Mr. Lunt tortured himself in excellent fashion, for there was anguish, one may be sure, in most of his glimpses around the corner. It is no small task for any actor to take on the outward aspects of a first class mental riot and still hold his audience.

POLLOCK PLAY FINE IN FILMS

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

WHO killed Cock Robin" That, you will remember, was one of your earliest crime stories. What mistery there was was removed by Mother Goose's quoting of the Coroner's confession. Well, in "The Locked Door," now at Loew's State Director George Fitzmaurice lets you in on the shooting, with a result that the only persons to be mystified thereafter are the police. The photoplay differs in a number of respects from the talkie, [illegible] these nothing to give one the creeps, and little to start any guessing save as to how it is going to turn out. The director has made it a bare, stark picture so far as the crime goes, but he has developed the motivation in an [illegible] fashion.

THE tale is one by Channing Pollock. He The Sign on the Door made a rocking good action drama with Lowell Sherman as the villainous breaker of men. He was good, too. The [illegible] now becomes in the film a "whoopee boat," and there are other radical changes to meet the real or imagined needs of the studio.

THE story is probably too well recalled to need a retelling. It has many strong points. Before the fortunes it [illegible] extremely fine cast.

MR. LA ROCQUE has the [illegible] polish for his role easily. Though not so adept in such things as Mr. Sherman, he is effective. But the histrionic highlight of the movie is Zasu Pitts [illegible] Inevitably, we might call attention to a true occurrence in motion pictures, on which new fame is merited. She all but steals the show, in this a comedienne as she is the tragic operatic. Other excellent ones are George Rumpf as the valet, Mack, Swain as the hotel owner and Harry Stubbs as the policeman-waiter. Betty Price Pan, Bronson is mighty refreshing and fairly well, much better than Miss Stanwyck. "METEOR" AUDITORS ARE LIFTED TO HEIGHTS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

ALTHOUGH delayed to some extent by early season censorial detours, the Theater Guild finally has arrived at the Hollis loaded down with literary merchandise. A new play by S N. Berhman, called "Meteor," was last evening's tempting morsel for anxious subscribers and just plain playgoers. Each group responded in force and gave eager if bewildered attention.

WHATEVER else may be said of Mr. Berhman's first venture into what you might term occultism in the fiction field he certainly contrived a play with an endless plot and a fair measure of suspense. As the final curtain descended you could not resist a feeling that the play was about to start off again on some new field of hidden research.

Nicholas Young

For the story, you should know, concerned a young man who looked into the future with a keen eye and saw all that was going on. It was troubling, of course, at times, maddening, and yet not without yielding handsome profits in worldly treasure.

IF the dramatist's process had for its objective a group of unhappy actors facing a perplexed audience his point was easily won. Tragic consequences followed every mystic gesture. An otherwise rather decent chap became an insolent egoist, a ruthless, greedy usurper of human rights. Friend and foe alike were insulted. Not a very lovely character for the Guild's chief playboy, Alfred Lunt, to test with even his colorful talents.

THERE was so much that was unreal in this central figure, whose mind reached out so far ahead of his companions, that you could be forgiven for suspecting, if you cared to suspect at all, that those penetrating visions should be carefully graded

GAY FLAPPERS AT GAYETY

LOLA PIERCE, Hawaiian dancing star, whose personality has made her a leader in her profession, wins new honors in "Flapper Follies" at the Gayety. It is a girly-girly show with a quartet of girls furnishing harmony of the kind usually heard from male voice.

The comedy was in the hands of Jack Montague, a tramp funster. He was assisted by Jack "Tiny" Fuller and Ezal Root, straight man. Specialties were unusual and attractive. George Stella introduced some novel piano playing, while Peggy White, blonde soubrette, kept her personality well to the front. The Shade of Night number, Spanish scene, Holland Mill and "Arts Review Petite" gave coloring to the production.

"ANNA CHRISTIE" GOES GERMAN IN FILMS

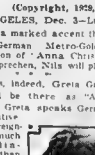
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3—Lucky break for Nils Asther. Nils talks with a marked accent that denotes his Swedish ancestry, but he can talk German Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has decided to make a German version of "Anna Christie" and since Charles Bickford cannot Deutsch sprechen, Nils will play his part.

OH, yes, indeed, Greta Garbo will be there as "Anna Christie." Greta speaks German like a native. These foreigners are much better linguists than Americans and the talkies will undoubtedly open an avenue for them in the way of foreign adaptations. Frank Reicher will act as interpreter for Clarence Brown, director.



Louella O. Parsons

As soon as Greta returns from her location at Lake Tahoe she will start rehearsing for "Romance." Greta can stutter in her own tongue all she likes in this picture, adapted from Doris Deane's stage play, for the opera singer's accent is one of the charming things about the play. Sidney Phipps at the same place, also Harry Richman and Harry Green. Sue Carol and Nick Stuart being given a belated wedding dinner. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

HOLLYWOOD is music mad. Everywhere you go in the studios stars are taking lessons or warbling, and dressing rooms that never boasted of a piano before are now equipped for the music mania. "The Dolar Princess" is going into production at the Fox studio soon.

J Harold Murray of "Rio Rita" fame, and Marjorie White have the leads. El Brendell, who got such a big hand for his work as the Swede in "The Cock-Eyed World" and "Sunnyside Up," has an important part. Alexander Corda will direct. By the bye they are giving Corda any number of important things to do on the Fox lot.

AM sure, now that Charlie Murray has returned from gadding about the country playing in vaudeville, he is going to have a pleasant little surprise waiting for him "McFadden's Flats," in which he made his greatest screen success, is to be revived as a talkie, with Ted Wilde directing. At the time "McFadden's Flats" was produced by Edward Small, and Mr Small is producing the talking version, Charlie will be the star and one of the many character actors He was so excellent in this picture that I'm sure the part he will be now ranking with the stars in popularity.

I HAVE been wondering what Universal can do with "The Little Accident," as a play it has censorable qualities that marked it as one of the naughty-naughts. Broadway productions but with scenario writers who can make black white and vice versa I suppose they haven't any cause for worry. That model young man Glenn Hunter will play the lead and any picture in which Mr Tryon appears, naturally loses any suggestion of being off color.

ONE thing the talkies have done for the movies. They have put a new value on shorts and comedies. I saw Mack Sennett the other day and Mack is sitting on top of the world at the moment. He has made a series of shorts and they are being booked in all the big houses throughout the country. Things do move in a cycle, believe it or not, and we have come back to the slapsticks. Mack Sennett and Hal Roach have started a comedy with William Watson directing. There you are, comedies ruling the world.

OPERA GOWNS GORGEOUS

By ANN ARDEN

THE gloom and tragedy of "La Gioconda," was lost, for the brilliant colors and lovely jewels gracing the boxes and parterre, made last evening.

Red and the various shades of pink were decidedly in the majority, with a large showing of all-black gowns, and a few in gold and in soft, light green; white white, as always, proved its popularity and becomingness

Skirts were almost invariably long, generally with dipping lines, and the decolletage very low in back.

A lovely frock in dahlia chiffon, worn by a slim brunette, was very long in the back, had a small cape of the chiffon from the shoulders, and was worn with matching satin slippers.

A flowered taffeta was youthful and new—cream ground, with large pink flowers, swathed at the hips, then very bouffant, and long in back.

Much lame was seen in gowns and in wraps. A gorgeous gown of white and gold lame was worn by a distinguished white-haired woman; the gown was long all around, on princess lines, and completed by a long wrap with three-quarter length, with wide collar of white fox fur.

Another of white chiffon was enveloped in a wrap of black and gold lame, with collar of black lynx

The black gowns were of velvet or of chiffon, and with fitted lines, and dipping hems, were outstandingly distinguished.

The wraps were of velvet or of lame, with fur collars, mostly of the flattering white fox.

A spray of white gardenias, pinned on the left shoulder, was a noticeable style note, while white satin gloves, reached above the wrist, were worn in many instances

"Show of Shows" Selected For Two Public Houses

The "Show of Shows," with 77 film stars, including John Barrymore, Beatrice Lillie, Winnie Lightner, Georges Carpentier, Irene Bordoni, Polmeroy Cowlello, Noah Beery, Marion Nixon, Richard Barthelmess and Betty Compson, will open at the Tremont and Washington St. Olympia next Friday.

UNTAMED GIRL AT ORPHEUM

CAPACITY crowds are viewing Joan Crawford's first all-talking feature, "Untamed," at Loew's Orpheum for a week's engagement. Dolly Kay, of recording fame, heads an unusually entertaining stage show.

As a girl brought up in the jungles of Central America and then transported to New York city with its entirely different standards, Miss Crawford gives a portrayal which has vivid color. It is a very well handled story of the "modern youth" variety. The supporting cast comprises Robert Montgomery, Ernest Torrence, Gwen Lee and Holmes Herbert.

Miss Kay, popular blues singer features the vaudeville fare with an excellent group of song offerings. Al Barton cleverly assists Miss Kay at the piano. Claire and Marion are favorably received in their act entitled "Still Arguing."

Pajamaland," a novel singing, dancing and musical revue is presented by a talented cast led by Loretta Dennison, Basil Sellers and the Four Maniacs. Doyle and Donnelly in a variety piece and the Orpheum Girls in an exhibition of thrilling aerial acrobatics round out the all-star bill.

Included in the program is a comedy, Hearst Metrotone and MGM newsreels are added screen treats.

Symphony Orchestra Concert is Thronged

The Boston Symphony Orchestra gave the second of its Monday concerts before the usual crowded house. Serge Koussevitzky, conducting again after a week's vacation, was at the top of his powers in a program that included Handel's Concerto Grosso, Opus 6, No. 10, Schumann's Piano Concerto and Tchaikovsky's Pathetic Symphony.

Martha Baird was the soloist in the concerto, and she was received by the applause of the audience following her performance. The orchestra was brilliant throughout the program, notable in the symphony, which was given a superb rendering under Koussevitzky's baton.

14 GIRL FLIERS ARE READY TO LAUNCH CLUB

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The time of peril [illegible] Saturday afternoon [illegible] hope for more male pul[illegible]

We guess it's all over [illegible] cheering and it's time for all male fliers to sign off and get [illegible] ing bonds somewhere.

Yep, a girls' flying club. And a cute own Boston Municipal Airport too.

At the [illegible] Miss [illegible] one [illegible] pretty [illegible] grabbed [illegible] of [illegible] asked [illegible] and pretty [illegible] an honorary flying club.

The idea has been [illegible] the Dorson Co. [illegible] when she was appointed [illegible] manager for Skyways. [illegible] promptly went to work on [illegible] program.

What [illegible] to be will be all about will be discovered and decided next Saturday afternoon when 14 girls, some of whom have pilot's [illegible] at present, and the rest who are taking [illegible] at Skyways [illegible] Eldridge and [illegible] Fields, start the club off on its way.

When Flying Cadet [illegible] Boston editor of the Sunday Advertiser heard of the plan he promptly [illegible] it. Skyways [illegible] as most of the girls are or have been students at Skyways. It is not [illegible] whether the name will be adopted by the club but we can't think of a better one offhand.

Mr. Dorson has invited the 14 [illegible] to attend the meeting and [illegible] the club. Miss Elizabeth [illegible] Miss Clara Ann Bowman, [illegible] Kenyon, Ruth Mathews, Betty Keller, all of whom are pilots, [illegible] at present. Miss Irene Spicer and Miss [illegible] have piloted but have not yet [illegible] their passenger ticket. [illegible] as Marion Parmele, Alice Wilson, Anita Wesson, Cora Diamond and [illegible] Merrick, who are [illegible] but who hope to check out [illegible] soon in the near future.

The idea is a good one, we are sure that it will be successful with Miss Dorson doing the [illegible].

What said the "amateur ace?"

FIRST CLASS AIRPORT

The more we think about the Dorson and Dash fliers new field in New Bedford where they will operate Sound Airways, Inc., the more we are sure that it is one of the best layouts we have seen.

An airplane can land on any part of the field, which [illegible] 2000 feet long and 1800 feet wide with runways east and west and north and south long enough to take the largest plane in the air, when we arrived down there in the company's Travel Air cabin monoplane we were pleased, and surprised to see runways laughed out with chalk, especially done to help the visiting pilot. The runways don't mean anything except to a stranger but best method of approach. A good idea when the entire area is available.

Sher[illegible] who amazed everybody with his [illegible] during the speed race held during the [illegible] tion exercises started [illegible] the field will be completely lighted [illegible] the most up-to-date equipment possible and every convenience possible will be installed in the office that sits on the edge of the [illegible].

A large barn that once housed Mr. Duff's prize cattle is being remodeled to make a hangar, with club rooms on the second floor.

"Getting in Movies" May Cost $25,000

[illegible], Kansas City, Dec. 3 (AP).—Subscribing kindling with unhampered [illegible] put on the high universal urge [illegible] the movies has cost [illegible] Lewis Fussell, lawyer of Wa[illegible] Mo., a pretty penny [illegible] [illegible] engaged in taking moral [illegible] ences throughout Missouri. Fowl [illegible] er posed gladly.

Casey Again Named to Head Printers

Members of the Allied Printing Trades Council, Greater Boston, at their regular monthly meeting in their headquarters in the Old South Building, nominated Martin J. Casey of the Electrotypers' Union for [illegible] term as president.

Daniel J. McDonald of Franklin Association No. 13, Press Feeders' Union, was nominated for his 33d consecutive term as secretary and business representative.

Army Fliers Escape Death in Landing

New York, Dec. 3 (AP).—Lieut. William [illegible] and Lieut. [illegible] Nelson, United States army aviators stationed at Langley Field, Va., brought his land plane down in the Kill Van Kull off Elizabeth port, N. J., today after the motor went dead.

Neither he nor his passenger, Major Frederic T. Arm[illegible] strong, field artillery, was injured. They were rescued by a tugboat.

"The Show of Shows" Has Everything—and Everything at its Best!

What is the finest talking picture you've ever seen? . . .Whatever it is, it will be only second best after you've seen "THE SHOW OF SHOWS".

Heedless of old production standards, Warner Bros. have made "The Show of Shows" just as far superior to its predecessors as the first Vitaphone picture was to silent films.

As though at some king's behest, all the fabulous genius and resources —all the beauty and star-talent—all the best ideas, innovations, and musical and artistic creations of a whole vast organization have been commandeered for Vitaphone's Hit of Hits.

Not merely more, but more than TWICE as many Stars, chorus beauties, song-hits, novel stage effects, and spectacular scenes as any past production has contained, have been plunged prodigally into the making of a picture that should stand as the supreme example of musical color films!

Broadway can but stand open-mouthed before full-color settings and ensemble numbers that the stage has never even approached in size and scintillating splendor . . .

The cast exhaust the alphabet of amusement aces with 77 real headliners, each in a definite part or "specialty"... And every one of the 25 principal scenes could be THE big scene in any ordinary film!

"The Show of Shows" will sweep away your memories of any former thrill you've gotten in the theatre. Don't miss it—for it may be years before you see its equal!

Air Romance, Better Than "Chickie"

What Has Happened

MARY PATRICIA DAWN, beautiful, young brunette, meets the lad of her dreams in the person of Guy Elliott, aviator Guy is developing a perfect airplane in the plant of old William Bryce. Happy days follow with Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryce, young widow of Bryce's son with her seductive lure. Later Guy receives a shut-com Barbara and her young son, upon whom old Bryce squanders a fortune. Tom Burns, a workman, rages about the unfairness of wealth. His invalid son is dying for want of necessities. When Bryce refuses a loan, Burns swears revenge. He robs the office safe and is captured after a gun fight. Preparations are being made for Pat to enter college. Hearing much gossip about the youth of today, Mrs. Dawn plans that Pat will remain the sweet girl she is. Pat's faith r dies and Mrs. Dawn gives her life savings to Bryce to invest, but Guy gets them back. Bryce stops financing the plane factory and with three persons vanish. Guy, Pat and Mrs. Bryce's little boy. Intense search is started.

CHAPTER 26

THE ransom note upset the man's theory of the kidnaping, threw police and relatives into a turmoil and now frightening mystery on their hands.

Everyone had been asking "What is the connection between the kidnaping of Billy Bryce and the simultaneous disappearance of Patricia Dawn and Guy Elliott? These two surely are involved."

Now, they said

"Is it possible there is NO connection? That some fiend has accomplished this? Then, what has been the fate of the girl and the man?"

Facts showed plainly that the threefold disappearance was more than a weird coincidence.

First, there was the finding of Guy's automobile with the nose flattened, the yellow hair on the seat as the hair of Barbara Bryce's son.

Second, Guy's plane was still missing. The time at which it took off fitted well with the scheme of kidnaping. It gave the man in the automobile a full hour and a half's start. In that hour and a half, too, it is supposing he was the man in the brown suit—could have driven the child to a lonely spot and left him there and hidden him. He could then have driven in a second car to Mills Field, gotten his plane and under cover of darkness flown back to the hiding place, rescued his victim and escaped with him in the plane.

It was discovered that the abandoned machine was found at Celtica, within quick walking distance of a big, level field. A skilful aviator like Elliot could have landed out this field and made a take-off.

Furthermore the field could be reached in half an hour by automobile from Lafayette Sq. So there was time enough for one man to have kidnaped the child and taken it to the plane before 8:00.

And third there was that telegram from the Bothfield Company offering the great opportunity which his contract with Bryce compelled him to refuse. Natural, he felt resentful. Bryce was shutting down his own plant, cutting off Guy's salary, yet declining to release him for work elsewhere. Plausible enough that a hot-headed youth might take extreme measures to force Bryce's surrender.

At any rate, this was the most obvious explanation of the threefold disappearance.

So generally was the theory accepted that no one, excepting Laura and Dickie, felt any great alarm for Pat.

And before that ransom note arrived before the mechanic at Mills field admitted that he wasn't sure the pilot of the plane was Guy, before this, even Laura Dawn didn't soon a ghastly fate for her daughter.

Repudiating utterly Guy's connection with the kidnaping, Laura was nevertheless certain that Guy and Pat were lost together. Anxious, forbidding pictures came into her mind. Oh, in a reckless moment these two had taken off, had found it delicious and exciting to speed through the black wilderness of sky.

They had lost count of time—had flown on and on. Until, perhaps, they were forced down in some lonely, unknown region and were now wandering there, injured, hungry, lost. Terrible as was this vision, it held some hope, some comfort. Laura clung to this.

But when Don Morse told her: "No, I didn't see Mr. Elliott at the controls. I'm not sure it was he who climbed into the cockpit. But it MUST have been. It was a clever pilot—MUST have been."

"Was my daughter in the plane when it took off?"

"I can't even swear to that . . . but she must have been. It was

BOYS, GIRLS HAVE RIGHT TO COAST, PARKER WARNS AUTOISTS

PROTECTION OF CHILDREN URGED

Registrar Calls on the Drivers and the Police to Help Reduce Dangers

With the first snow of the winter Registrar [illegible] Motor Vehicles George A. Parker issued his annual warning to the public to be prudent in coasting.

"We are anxious that the dangers and suffering due to collisions between sleds and motor vehicles be reduced. During the last seventeen years no fewer than 72 boys and girls have lost their lives while engaged in the sport of coasting.

"Last year there were nine lives sacrificed in this way, and every day afternoon in the months of January and February in Boston the name of at least one of the boys were placed on the danger lists because their sleds were struck by autos.

The registrar has stated that the boys and girls have an unalienable right to coast and that they should be protected as far as possible.

"The police authorities in every city and town should see to it that suitable streets or other places are provided where the young folks may coast with safety and coasting should be absolutely prohibited and made impossible by the spreading of ashes on those streets which are steep and lead into other streets where there is any amount of motor vehicle traffic to be continued.

Through proper co-operation, the registrar concluded, and the providing of safe coasting places the death toll can be reduced to believed, in a minimum. The parents, too, he said, can play a prominent part by warning the youngsters against coasting in prohibited places.

SHIP IS DRIVEN BACK BY GALE

With a sigh of relief Capt Coward of the American Diamond line steamer City of Alton, a big freighter moored at the Army base today, mused over a stormy trip from Rotterdam that threatened his vessel every day.

Last Tuesday his position showed him 15 miles behind that of the previous day. A checkup showed that though there had been full steam ahead for 24 hours the ship actually had lost 15 miles.

Next day a ventilator crashed to the deck. That was the only damage from the gale.

The steamer Gypsum Queen also in today reported an unusually stormy trip from Windsor, N. S. The steamer Greenwich the next morning, Wednesday, reported that she was having a strong and rough gale and could not go the next day until Friday.

The order of the tomato can with the can top still on it medal is to be bestowed on a score or more of students at the Boston University school of liberal arts.

The decoration is to be awarded because they went on record last spring as being in sympathy with the British government at the time of the Revolutionary War.

An unknown anti-British enthusiast of Chicago, Ill., the home town of Big Bill Thompson, mayor of that city, first started the movement to honor the students.

Professor Parker S. Mosley announced the receipt of a letter approval from the unknown Chicagoan.

The letter, the author of which Professor Mosley says is a woman, but with whom he has had no personal contact, reads in part as follows:

"May I suggest that you present to the 20 students of the historical studies [illegible] who have been so interesting and helpful in your change in attitude and passing on to the study of [illegible] who pledged may be present to the mere honorable rise in [illegible]

Two Reunions Mark Arrival of Liner

Two reunions—a husband and wife and mother and daughter—marked the arrival of the Hamburg-American liner Cleveland today at Commonwealth Pier, after a stormy trip from Hamburg, Boulogne and Queenstown.

While one ended in joy, it was swept with despair for a time as Miss Monika Maskaste, 17, Lithuanian, scanned the dock in vain for her mother and father.

She found a comforter in Miss Theo Kiela, attache of the State Board of Labor, immigration department, who was about to take her in charge when the girl's mother came rushing onto the dock.

The mother, it developed, was delayed on her trip from Stonington, by the snowfall of yesterday.

Immigrant Inspector William Ward was loath to admit the girl without interviewing her mother and assuring himself of proper protection for her tender years.

On the verge of tears, Miss Kiela led her from the ship. The reunion grant was the first to [illegible] her mother rushing in the [illegible] the couple had not met for some time.

The Cleveland passed one of the roughest voyages of its career, according to Capt. Schwamberger, regular skipper of the steamer Hamburg, who took this trip in place of Capt. Robert Niss. At Queenstown the sea was calmed but 10 hours when the weather prevented it from picking up a pilot.

More than 1000 emigrants bound for New York, rested comfortably in her holds, however, with no casualties reported among them.

After debarking her list of passengers and 340 sacks of mail here the Cleveland left for New York with 206 more passengers.

OFFICIAL IS LINKED WITH THEFT OF 100,000 "L" TICKETS

ACTION NEAR IN ROBBERY INQUIRY

Evidence Gained In Company Investigation Turned Over to Police

The name of an official has been linked with the recent larceny of more than 100,000 tickets from the Boston Elevated Railway, it was learned today.

Evidence involving this man has been turned over to police by Elevated officials, following a private investigation they made.

As a result conferences have been held between Supt. of Police Michael H. Crowley, Capt. Jeremiah Gallivan of Division 10 and Inspector Thomas Mulrey of the bureau of criminal investigation.

The robbery occurred about six months ago, the loot consisting of 6-cent tickets valued at thousands of dollars, taken from the Elevated storehouse in Bartlett st., Roxbury.

Capt. Gallivan and Inspector Mulrey began an investigation and at the same time Elevated officials started a private probe which has revealed surprising facts.

These facts, together with the name of the official, were turned over to the police and it is expected action will follow immediately.

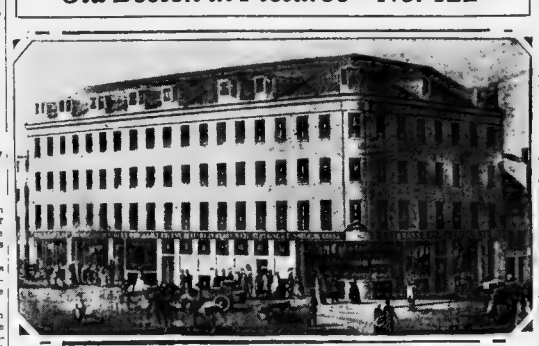
Old Boston in Pictures—No. 122



Courtesy Massachusetts Historical Society

ONE of the finest buildings in old Boston was the Simmons Block, which formerly stood on Water st., between Congress and Devonshire sts., on the site of the present magnificent structure of the National Shawmut Bank. The Simmons Block played an important part in the business of the time, having been occupied in its upper stories as offices. It was directly opposite the Postoffice Building, now undergoing demolition.

Blackstone Baffles Kiddies at Party

Howling winds and blinding snowstorms which gripped the rest of Boston were as South Sea zephyrs compared to the children who stormed the Boston Arena with howls of glee at the big pre-Christmas party given by the Boston Evening American.

The center of attraction was Blackstone, the famous magician who, with his company, gave up his time to make the party a success, although he had just finished a brilliant opening to his week's stay at the Keith-Albee Theater.

Through the courtesy of George V. Brown, managing director of the Boston Arena, the huge amphitheater was donated free of charge for the party.

Many children went home tightly hugging the pink-eyed bunnies which the great Blackstone had so mysteriously produced from hats and all manner of queer places

And, besides all that, Blackstone escaped from a huge packing case which Pope and Cottle, the lumber dealers, had built as a challenge for the occasion

Because Sid Lawrence, manager of the Keith-Albee theater, has a warm spot in his heart for unfortunate kiddies, dozens of automobiles were pressed into service by kindly business men to bring crippled youngsters to the party

It was a great afternoon, and the kids for months ahead will be repeating the stunts they saw and talking excitedly over the Boston Evening American pre-Christmas party.

Math Teachers to Meet Saturday

Blue Hill Parkway Closed for Week

The south side of Blue Hill parkway, Milton, will be closed to traffic for the remainder of the week between Brook rd. and Eliot st. because of the moving of a 2½-story building.

The moving of the building ties up half a mile of the parkway.

In Reading Mr. Cook is prominent in the Betterment Association and the Reading Golf Club. He has been vice-president and treasurer of the Boston Kiwanis and is one of its past active officers

SAFE BREAKER IS TRAPPED BY BUTTONS

South End Man Admits That He and a Pal Robbed Cafeteria Safe

Three broken buttons from an overcoat which were torn off while the owner was going through a window today led to a confession by Lawrence Kellett, 23, of Shawmut ave., South End, that he was one of two men who broke into Kenmore Cafeteria, 1,256 Boylston st., and robbed the safe of $1005. Kellett's companion is being sought.

Sergt. John Maune and Special Officer Joseph Condon of the Back Bay station found three broken buttons inside the cafeteria after the break was discovered. Twenty-four hours after the break they located Kellett, who had worked as a bus boy in the cafeteria until a week before the robbery. They saw three new buttons were sewed on his overcoat and that the three broken buttons in their possession matched the other buttons on the coat.

The police say that after lengthy questioning Kellett, who was first held as a suspicious person, confessed that he and another young man also familiar with the premises, broke into the place, carried a safe to an inclosed in the cellar and robbed it of its contents. Kellett said the safe was open, but that they hacked it with a meat cleaver to give the impression it had been broken open. The police are of the opinion one of the two men knew the combination and opened it in the regular way.

The police say Kellett told them a companion fled to New York with the money and they were to divide it later. Both were glove-less during the robbery, he said, according to police, to avoid detection.

BOSTON WATER CASE REFERRED TO A MASTER

U. S. Supreme Court Orders Speedy Report on Connecticut-Bay State Suit

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Supreme Court after setting January 6 to hear oral arguments in the case brought by Connecticut to prevent Massachusetts from diverting water from the Connecticut river for use in the metropolitan district at Boston, changed its mind and without a formal order from the bench, decided not to hear the two states on the motion of Connecticut to strike Massachusetts' answer from the record.

It appointed Charles W. Bunn of St. Paul, Minn., special master, with power to summon witnesses issue subpoenas and take testimony. It directed him to make a finding of facts and to submit his report to the court with all convenient speed, together with his recommendations for a decree.

After the special master's report is filed the states will be heard by the court in oral argument in support of, and in opposition to, the master's recommendations.

Close Lynn Street After Double Crash

After three automobiles slid back ward and jammed into each other while trying to climb Lover's Lane hill, in the Pine Hill section of Lynn, police closed the street to further traffic until the snow could be cleared away.

The storm made the hill so slippery that when one of the three automobiles had almost reached the crest of the hill it started to suddenly slide backward and crashed into a machine following. A third car, behind the two, was struck and the three were locked securely together.

Somerville Cubs Seek Berth in Twilight League

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

MAY TAKE PLACE OF READING

THE Somerville Cubs, one of the best semipro nines in the state last season, are negotiating for a berth in the Twilight league for next year.

If the Cubs are successful, the franchise of the Reading team of the Twi circuit is to be transferred to Somerville.

Definite announcement of the entry of the Cubs into the Twi league probably will be made toward the end of this week, provided the Cubs and Reading are able to settle the business end of the deal to the satisfaction of each.

Last year, the Cubs played fine baseball. Johnny Murphy, former Somerville high all-scholastic pitcher was the mound star of the nine. Murphy is a southpaw, a smart pitcher who has a flock of curves and good control.

Capt. Donovan, second baseman and field leader of the Cubs, was another outstanding player. Hitting and fielding were consistently good.

The Cubs have been playing together for several seasons now and their teamwork and individual brilliance would make them formidable contenders for the Twi league crown. And Somerville fans follow the Cubs so faithfully that the team should make money in the Twi league.

RAWSON TRAINS HARD FOR BOUT

Jim Rawson of Dorchester is rounding into the best condition of his career for his scheduled 10-round battle with Ricardo Fritzgerald, the Argentine matador at the Arena on Dec. 18.

For six weeks Rawson has not left his training camp at Wan [illegible]. Day after day he has [illegible] and eight rounds with Fitz, Ryan and a flock of big boys, and the best Rawson targ has ever seen will crawl through the ropes to meet the most important foe of his career.

Rawson has fought 23 professional bouts and has scored 22 knockouts, most of them in the first and second rounds. His right hand punch is the best offensive weapon that has been discovered since Jack Dempsey made a left hook famous.

He is no wild swinger, this 20-year-old knockout king. He shoots his punches short and straight. They travel often less than a foot, but they carry such dynamite that he has piled up knockout after knockout.

His most important victories were scored over Joe Morris and Jack DeHaze. Monte had carried Max Schmeling eight hostling rounds before being knocked out. Against Rawson, he was floored three times and finally knocked out in exactly 2 minutes, until it was a full two hours before he recovered sufficiently to leave the Arena.

MR. BOSTON

by JACK CONWAY

"THE hockey rush will get going at top speed tonight when the Bruins and Canadiens get tangled up at the Boston Garden," said Mr. Boston as he snowshoed into the office today.

"During the past two weeks hockey has been obliged to share the spotlight with football. This, naturally, has taken away some of the interest in the game.

"Now that the football heroes have suffered their last injury of the season for Harold White, hockey will have things more its own way.

"Boxing and wrestling are the only sports which give hockey any opposition during the winter months. As the promoters of these bone pastimes wage fierce stage their offerings on nights when there is not a major hockey match billed, the fans who like to take in hockey, boxing and wrestling are not disappointed.

"Hockey packs more thrills into an evening than any other sport. The action is terrific at all times.

"Of course everybody is rooting for the champion Bruins to have another big season on the ice. I do not hesitate agreeing with Frankie Ryan when he tells his radio audience that the Bruins have one of the most courageous hockey clubs in the world.

"I AM going to pass up the hockey game tonight to attend the annual football night of the Newton Council, K. of C., the McKenney, Boston College football coach, and other football celebrities will give interesting talks. I know everybody will enjoy hearing McKenney give the inside dope on Holy Cross College's victory over Holy Cross.

"I WAS grieved to hear of the death of Pat Moran at Quebec. Pat was a licensed judge of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission and was a capable, fearless official. He was a close personal friend of the late John H. Gilhooly, former sporting editor of this newspaper. Before Gil passed on to the Great Beyond, a day never passed without Pat dropping into this office to talk sports with his pal.

"Moran was a lover of the old school of boxing. His greatest admiration was for the aggressive, punching type of ring warrior. He liked Young Kloby the best of the boxing stars of recent years. Kloby's aggressive style appealed to Pat.

"THE boys who pick the all-American teams are having their innings. Since the death of Walter Camp the selection of no expert has been accepted as THE all-American team. So dear reader, if you don't like the choice of the experts pick your own team, and it will have equal standing.

"Nowadays there are so many good football players that it is impossible to give proper recognition to all of the stars. The experts usually name players for their teams whom they have seen in action. This makes the teams limited in scope.

"THE past season produced a wealth of backfield material any expert who can pick the four best backs in the country is a miracle man. All-American teams furnish fodder for the fans and so they are not entirely in vain.

"THE real heroes of the football season were the spectators who almost froze to death watching last Saturday's games. I suppose, though, they should be thankful it didn't snow.

Jack Conway

CANADIENS' STAR

Aurel Joliat, brilliant wingman of the Les Canadiens, who clash with the Bruins at the Boston Garden tonight. A win over the Bruins will give the Canadiens the lead in the Canadian division of the National Hockey League, but will not oust the Bruins from the top of the American division.

YOUNG QUITS AS HEAD COACH AT PENN

Philadelphia, Dec. 3—The University of Pennsylvania will have a new football coach next season. Lonzo A. Young, who has been head coach for the last seven years and whose contract expires with the end of the year, announced he had declined re-election, and will become assistant to the chairman of the council of athletics.

It had been reported that Young would be appointed graduate manager of athletics at Pennsylvania to succeed Ernest B. Cozens, who died last spring, and the announcement he would become assistant to Sydney E. Hutchinson, chairman of the athletic council, came as a surprise.

No announcement was made as to who would succeed Young as coach. Chairman Hutchinson said the football committee would meet the latter part of this week to select a football team manager, and the question of a coach may be taken up then.

It was possible, he said, that no action on a coach may be taken until the athletic council meets late this month. In the meanwhile, he added, the field would be carefully scanned.

Among the names mentioned as Young's successor were Lout Little, coach at Georgetown University, a former Pennsylvania football star; Bert Bell, who until last year was an assistant coach at Penn; Lou Young and Harold Haston, former Pennsylvania players. Glenn Warner's name also has been mentioned.

Lou Young said he regretted that he had to refuse a new contract as football coach, but was glad that he would continue his connection with the university as assistant chairman of the athletic council.

"I have spent seven seasons as head football coach," he said, "and during that time I have been fortunate enough to have my teams meet with their own full share of success. However, the time has now arrived when business and economic reasons force me to turn [illegible] work and to leave the coaching field."

St. James' Eleven Has Amazing Record

LOST ONLY 2 HOME GAMES

In 1922 St. John's Prep came to the St. James field and won [illegible] to 2. Boston College in 1926 fought the visitors to a [illegible] tie, and Holy Cross won over the Haverhill team by the latter city. Those two defeats were the only ones suffered by St. James high at its home field.

B. C. high was the only team to conquer St. James in 1929, the year when the Blue and White started to make its fine record.

St. James high lost one game in 1923, after a nine game career, the team travelled to Colorado, where it played the Colorado Springs high school.

The change in altitude and climate was too much for the Bay State boys in that game, and the powerful Colorado eleven won, 33 to 0.

NO DEFEAT SINCE 1926

Nineteen hundred and twenty-five was the last year in which St. James lost a game. The team after winning nine games went to Washington, D. C., to play one league game. The latter game was a [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] that game on St. James has swept along a short young one till Bridget Carroll and his boys are proud of that fact. And folks of Haverhill and surrounding cities have reason to commend the St. James athletes on their record.

POLAR BEARS STRONG ON ICE

For the past three years the Polar Bears have roosted on top of the ice hockey heap and they hope to remain there this year.

The letter men available are: Captain Stuart Stone, Wendell Ward, Basil Dwyer, Herbert Rose, James Parker and Harry Dawes. Most of these are veterans of at least two seasons.

One of the most difficult schedules ever undertaken by [illegible] the team this year and it includes besides two intersectional games one with Boston University and the other with Northeastern, 13 other games, as follows: Jan. 4, Bates; Jan. 8, New Hampshire at Durham; Jan. 11, Colby, Jan. 13, Northeastern; Jan. 18, Bates at Lewiston; Jan. 17, R. BROTHERS BOX FOR TORONTO

Two fighting brothers, one of them regarded as the Al Marsteller of Canadian rugby, will make their appearances at the Boston Arena next Monday night with the Toronto team in the proposed international amateur boxing tournament, which will bring together the ring champions of five cities of the country and Canada.

Bill Brown, a heavyweight [illegible] schoolteacher, the [illegible] middleweight in Toronto ruck will make his first Hub appearance in this tournament and, according to reports from his native city, he is one of the hardest hitting boxers we've ever developed in that section of the Dominion.

Frank Brown, brother, who is a lacrosse player, will [illegible] Toronto in the 147-pound class. Both recently won a decision over Ray Smillie, who impressed Hub fans in his last appearance. Brown recently was successful in a tournament taped in Chicago.

Toronto will be represented by four boxers in the approaching tournament, in addition to the brown boys, the big stars of the team. Earl Pickering of the St. Agnes A. C., in the flyweight class and George Carthew in the middleweight class will be the representatives.

With the passing of each day Tom Kanaly of the B. A. A. who will have charge of the tournament reports that the event looms up as one of the best amateur boxing shows seen around here. Boston, New York, Grand Rapids and Montreal will be pitted against these Toronto boxers.

It was learned yesterday that the management of the Boston Arena, where the tournament is to be held, has agreed to the removal of the ice from the floor surface. In addition, they have agreed to provide a temperature between 65 and 75 degrees. No doubt this feature will prove popular to the fans [illegible] this year.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher.

Up to now for you advanced golfers I have dwelt wholly on the phase of golf that concerns improving your shots, pointing out some of the things that cause shots to go bad and showing you how to seek and cure these causes. In improving your game you have two sides of the matter to contemplate. One phase of golf is to improve your shots. The second phase is to improve your scores. Many a fine shot maker is unable to score for sour apple sauce. He looks good on the front tee, but as a partner dollar, dollar, dollar he's a fine drag. Scoring involves principles of play that are entirely outside shot making, and these principles must be put to work in your game if you are to whittle down into the 70's or the low 80's. If you are already there, as some of you are, exactly the same principles must be applied to carry you on down to par. You improve your shots through practice—not by playing. You improve your scores, necessarily, while actually playing. Therefore the chief enemy to conquer is carelessness. This is a bigger job than you might suspect.

Schoolboy Title Meet in February

No better sign of approaching winter is flashed to the sport lovers than the announcement that the 35th B. A. A. interscholastic meet will be held at the Boston Arena at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of February 15.

Al T. Hart, chairman of the athletic committe at the Unicorn Club hopes to make this the biggest meet in years. It has been held at the Arena before but only on one or two occasions and at all other times has been held at the Mechanics Building track.

Most of the school trackstars are practicing on tracks similar to that installed at the Arena for such reasons and the banked corners [illegible] such as at Mechanics are not now so ordinarily used.

BOOTH NAMED QUARTERBACK ON ELEVEN

NEW YORK, Dec 3 (AP)—Pittsburgh and Yale, with three representatives apiece, are [illegible] the honors on the All Eastern football eleven for 1929 in a [illegible] poll[illegible] by the Associated Press.

In the first team lineup is only one sophomore, [illegible] a unanimous choice for quarterback, and Toby Uansa, with more votes than any other back, becomes Eagle's running mate. Completing the backfield, Al Marsters, Dartmouth's unexpected ace is placed at fullback, a position for which he was made to order, although his regular post was at half.

DOUGLAS WINS BERTH

All four are great open field runners all but Booth are rabbits like "take out men"; Eagle and Marsters are rated the two best forward passers in the East, and Marsters and Booth are among the leading kickers.

Joe Donchess of Pittsburgh is a unanimous choice for one end position, and the other goes to Jim Ticknor of Harvard, despite hot competition from such valuable ramblers as Nemecek of New York University and Broom of Dartmouth, placed on the second team.

Sam Wakeman, Cornell leader and Ray Vincent, Yale captain elect, win the first team tackle assignments. Capt. "Pirpe" George of Yale and Ray Montgomery, Pittsburgh, get the call at guard, and Ben Tarbell, Harvard captain elect, beat out Tom Siano of Fordham for first string center selection.

COLGATE PASSED UP

Colgate's well balanced [illegible] team play is reflected in the fact that, while Coach Andy Kerr's formidable eleven had no outstanding star to win first team recognition, Gilson guard, and Hart, fullback, were placed on the second team and several other players were among the best in the section [illegible] honorable mention.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Health Hint

FOR very dry skin, water should not be used too often, but the face cleansed with cold cream, almond oil or olive oil. Glycerine and rose water makes a very pleasant lotion. Constitutional cause for the excessive dryness should be investigated

This Day in Our History

ON December 3, 1917, President Wilson, in an address to the United States Congress, recommended a declaration of war against Austria-Hungary. Austria-Hungary was an ally of the German Empire during the World War, therefore an enemy.

They wouldn't stretch farther than they do when you invest in this shoe. As a convincing argument just check off on your fingers what is represented for $12.50—choice of black or brown suede or calf, the popular Cuban heel, added instep protection because of the cut of this particular model, a typical English fringed tongue, complete assortment of sizes up to 9 from AAA to C width—and exceptional wearing qualities. We count SIX very sound reasons for owning this shoe—you'll discover as many more upon wearing it.

Men's Gift Neckties

85 cents

Every year we usher in the Christmas season with large assortments of quality neckties at 85c. We do such a tremendous business in these ties, that we devote to them a special section on the second floor, to separate them from our higher priced ties. They are made to our order from carefully selected fabrics. In fashion and quality they meet our rigid standards of the best procurable merchandise for the money. This year, assortments are larger than ever before. There are plenty of blues . . . high in fashion favor just now, as well as other colors, both bright and subdued. There are faille ties, Spitalsfield type, Barathea ties and repps. Plain colors, dots, stripes, figures.

EVENING AMERICAN MARKETS

New York Stocks — News of Street

QUOTATIONS IN FULL NOVELTY ON BIG TAPE

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor

Quotations in full instead of the usual abbreviations of prices were a novelty on the N. Y. Stock Exchange ticker for the first week. The average trader for the first time in many years was able to ascertain precisely what a stock was paying per hour of the business of the market.

Congress gets under way today. It will be recalled that pre-holiday adjournment was featured by Washington ire aroused by the statement of a leading banker that Congressmen were to blame for the market's crash. Roger Babson suggested that plenty of people were satisfied when Congress adjourned. The stock market is not now in session but it obviously is harmed by political vagaries. It is for less vulnerable to political or "bear" attacks than it was before the break, of course.

"Uncertainties of another Congress session" was one of the reasons given by W. S. Cousins for such timidness as hung over Wall Street at the beginning of the week. Tariff rumors naturally that conference would start this week. Democratic governments attack on any power companies under the Chadwick general drive on "high-pressure" methods are all likely, particularly when we used federal power to afford industry any special help.

* * *

Dr. Julius Klein stated recently that the buying power of the great industrial army is unaffected by the stock market slump. Experience corroborative evidence of this statement is found in the announcement of President Everett of Montgomery Ward that his house in November will be the largest sales for any November in history. It is noted that it was the 19th consecutive an increase in sales over the like period of the previous year. Cowardly New Yorker pounded the sales office an interesting index of business activity.

Charitable donations in Wall Street are reported increased since the market break. Well the best men to pray.

The statement has been freely made that margin buyers were the biggest losers in the stock market crash. Before accepting this without reserve we would like to see actual figures of losses sustained by margin buyers as over against cousins who pedaled their stock at the banks to raise funds for business and then found themselves obliged to finish added collateral when a time demand came.

The ban on visitors to the New York Stock Exchange, just lifted, has been in force since Oct. 24. But reporters male and female as well as writers assigned to the financial district to gather "local color" during the times of stress and still unaware of the ban watched this conclusion of the day's business from the public gallery and made descriptions of the crowds on the floor.

Samuel L. Powers, chairman of the Boston Elevated's public trustees, is now in his 63d year of service and still as a public speaker throughout his later years. He declined to seek the election as U. S. Senator because he did not believe in having men around 80 representing the Commonwealth at Washington. Mr. Powers' The Powers homestead is in Cornish, the town that gave Maria Chapdelaine to the world. Mr. Powers produced his masterpieces there.

We believe Cornish for a time also enjoyed the presence of E. C. Tarbell, who, according to literary authorities ranks as America's foremost artist. In recent years Mr. Tarbell has made his home in Newbury, the inland town of New Castle, N. H. Years ago this was the summer home of Edward Clarence Stedman, the only poet who prefaced his career with the Muses by employment as a stock broker in Wall Street.

Those who deplore the diversion of capital from construction speculation must find themselves puzzled trying to figure out what happened when construction funds were raised by sale of first mortgage bonds which became without a market. The construction proved to have been too speculative.

Pathfinder of November 30 tells us "Daisy" Gillis was re-elected Mayor of Newburyport, yet Newburyport's election is being held today. Both ex-Mayor Cashman and Mayor Gillis are interested in automotive lines.

Edward Motley was today elected a vice-president of the Webster & Atlas National Bank, of which he has been a director for the past five years. For many years Mr. Motley was a partner of Curtis & Sanger, in charge of their commercial paper department.

New Increases in Dividends Break Records

Our Exclusive Compilation Shows Leaders' Faith in the Future

—By B. C. FORBES—

B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, Dec. 3—All records for increased, for extra and other forms of improved dividend payments were broken last month, the records exclusively compiled for this column show.

Cheerful dividend declarations totaled 387. This compares with 153 in November of last year and 136 in 1927.

For the eleven months of this year the grand total of favorable dividend declarations has been 3,896, against 1241 for the corresponding period of last year and 974 two years ago.

The prospect is that December will bring an equally wonderful dividend showing.

This table shows the form taken by the improved dividend payments announced last month by industrials, public utilities and railway companies:

	Ind	P.U.	R.R.
Extra	117	4	1
Initial	47	6	3
Increased	202	14	4
Stock	39	5	2
Resumed	4	1
Bank	1
Total	298	19	9

Only 26 companies took unfavorable dividend action, nine deferred payments, eight omitted them, and three made reductions—all industrial companies.

This year's better disbursements have come largely from industrial enterprises. The railroads show no increase over last year of only three such announcements, public utilities show a gain of 88, while the industrial increase has been no less than 820. Industrials have made 841 extra payments this year against 132 last year, 485 initial payments against 248, 397 stock dividends against 106 and 203 in month since 1921.

This table summarizes the improved dividend payments each month since 1924:

	1929	1928	1927	1926	1925
Jan.	120	113	43	43	28
Feb.	126	94	81	72	48

July	202	124	91	74	37
August	121	108	85	55	29
Sept.	153	103	84	57	34
Oct.	179	153	83	69	31
Nov.	387	153	136	101	52
Totals	1904	1256	910	717	375
Dec.	1903	1241	974	811	611
Totals	3807	2497	1884	1528	986

No sooner had misfortune overtaken the stock market than influential boards of directors began distributing dividend largesse. More than one directorate deliberately refrained from taking stimulating dividend action while stocks were booming wildly, because they did not care to add fuel to the Wall Street flames. Now they do not hesitate to place into the hands of stockholders some part of their unnecessarily large surpluses.

To illustrate the confidence shown by leading corporations in their own strongly entrenched position and in the outlook, it is worth while noting the most important resources that announced more generous dividend disbursements last month:

SEES NO NEED FOR FEAR OF DEPRESSION

Termination of distress liquidation in the stock market has been accompanied by a better feeling generally on the part of the public towards business, according to the monthly review of the National City Bank.

As people have had opportunity to bring a calmer judgment to bear on what has transpired they are coming to realize that the prosperity of the country is not dependent upon the fluctuations of the stock market, the review goes on to say, adding in part:

"This is not to say that the fluctuations in the market do not affect business, for it is a well known fact that they do, both psychologically and by affecting the purchasing power of a large number of people. Such fluctuations, however, are not the major influence in shaping the course of business.

"In the end, the stock market must be guided by business and not business by the stock market. If the business situation itself is sound, as we feel it is, then industry should have no need to fear a serious or protracted depression.

"The essential fact, wherein the present differs from most periods of great stock market declines in the past, is that business itself is healthy and has not been involved in over-expansion with the stock market—which means that an attack of acute indigestion is accordingly, while it may cause business a severe headache, should not seriously cripple the patient.

MONEY RATES

"The liquidation in the stock market, combined with the shift of Reserve bank policy from tight to easy money, has resulted already in a marked change in money rates.

"Ordinarily a change in money conditions at New York is quite promptly reflected at interior points, as banks shift balances to and fro in order to avail themselves of the best rates obtainable. That this readjustment has been delayed in this instance is doubtless due in part to the fact that for some time banks in the interior have preferred to keep idle their own money invested in the call money market.

"Abroad, money conditions are still generally tight, but with the liquidation in our stock market tied responsible for the gradual easing, the situation in most countries is improving."

WAY CLEARED

In conclusion, the bank's review says:

"The outstanding fact from a world-wide standpoint that emerges from the past month is that the breakdown in the stock exchange speculation is most important obstacle to monetary stability, and clears the way for a speedy up-building of the forces of financial reconstruction.

"Not only do the easier conditions here mean that the drain of European funds to this market will be stopped, but it unfolds the possibility that funds in this country may flow abroad again through a revival of foreign financing operations in this market. If this proves to be the case, the enhancement of foreign purchasing power resulting therefrom should be an important factor in maintaining and expanding our export trade."

$24,000,000 IN NEW OFFERINGS

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—New securities totaling more than $24,000,000 were offered to the market today by New York banking houses and syndicates. Of this amount new bond offerings totaled $23,-871,000.

November sales of Nelsner Brothers totaled $1,557,066, as compared with $1,037,343 in November, 1928, an increase of 501 per cent. Sales for the 11 months aggregated $12,404,349, as against $8,198,506 in the corresponding period last year, a gain of 51.2 per cent.

The Standard Oil Company of New York has reduced the tank wagon price of gasoline in the Buffalo district from 16 to 14 cents a gallon. The reduction follows a similar one recently made in the service-station price.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific reports to speed about $150,000,000 next year in maintenance and repairs, new equipment and other expenses.

Cold Month Mirrored by Lower Earnings by Ice Company

An unusually cold October, with temperatures 3.8 per cent below normal were reflected in November gross company's finances for that month, which after interest but before federal taxes and depreciation showed a profit of $437,625 in October last. Net earnings for 10 months after interest but before federal taxes and depreciation, were $3,-278,430, as compared with $5,053,-031 in the same period of 1928.

AT THE DIAL

By THE RADIO EDITOR

THE Soconyland sketch this evening will give the story of Ponce de Leon's search for the Fountain of Youth. It will be broadcast at 7:30 through WEEI and associated NBC stations.

THE song made famous by the late Raymond Hitchcock, "Well I Swan" will be one of Frank Crumit's solos during the Blackstone program tonight at 8 o'clock through WNAC. Frank will accompany himself on his ukelele. His wife, Julia Sanderson of musical comedy fame, will sing one of the numbers that helped make her famous—the Mummy song from "The Canary," the musical show of a few seasons ago in which she and Joseph Cawthorn starred.

"HER COWBOY LOVER" is the title of the broadcast by True Romance at 8:30 over WNAC and the Columbia System. Musical interludes will be provided by the orchestra which has performed on past Tuesday nights.

A young girl from Chicago who marries a rancher finds life on the plains far different from what she expected. "Vulgar," is the term she employs to describe the free and easy ways of the West. In a moment of folly she leaves her husband and returns to Chicago in search of gaiety and entertainment. Then comes the awakening.

MARIAN ANDERSON, a young contralto who won the 1925 Lewisohn Stadium Contest in New York City from a field of 300 contestants, will sing negro spirituals, plantation songs and melodies reminiscent of the old South when the Around the World with Libby concert ensemble presents a Virginian program through WBZ and the NBC Coast-to-Coast System at 8:30. "Turkey in the Straw" and the "Virginia Reel" are the selections by the orchestra, under the direction of Josef Pasternack.

IN the Prophylactic Program, which will be broadcast tonight at 8:30 through WEEI, Gene Rodemich, conductor, has attempted to please everyone. It will include old and new numbers as well as those of Tin Pan Alley. The "old" number will be sung by the Prophylactic Trio. It is a melody which Eddie Leonard popularized from one end of the country to the other—"Ida." A trumpet-guitar-and string ensemble play "La Paloma," the popular tango.

The two newest numbers which we've heard by the orchestra are "A Ship Without a Sail" and "My Man Is on the Make." Both are from Rodgers and Hart's Broadway musical comedy only a couple of weeks old.

THE second radio appearance of John Boles, the screen and stage star, will occur during the Gold-Paul Whiteman broadcast over the nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting System, coming from Los Angeles through WNAC tonight. He will sing two numbers. With him will be Jack Eagan, star of "Broadway Scandals."

LEST HUTCHESON, famous pianist, will be the guest artist tonight's Everready Hour, broadcast over the nation-wide network of 22 stations. The Hour will "Battle Symphonic Etude" of Schoven will be played by the Everready Hour orchestra, under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkret. Lillian McGrail, violinist.

The first number of the Hutcheson program.

The pianist will play the first movement of Schumann's A minor concerto. Chopin's little "Minute Waltz," which takes exactly one minute to play, will be the pianist's second number, followed by the Polonaise in A major by Chopin.

Mr. Hutcheson also will play his favorite encore piece, the "Butterfly Etude." This, with the Nocturne in E flat, also by Chopin, will conclude the Hutcheson performance. Inga Hill, contralto, will sing the brief Stage from Chaminade's Souris, accompanied by the Everready Hour orchestra. The program will end with Schubert's orchestral suite "Le Cid" and the Strauss Blue Danube waltz.

JOE ALESSI, trumpet soloist, will play "Inflammatus" when the Dutch Masters Minstrels broadcast over the NBC system, Tuesday evening, December 3, at 9:30. The Cotton Pickers' quartet: Carson Robison, novelty vocalist; Paul Dumont and Al Bernard, male duo; Harold Sanford, tenor, and Darl Rathmann, baritone, present the program under the direction of Harold Sanford.

"SONG of the Moonbeams" and "Gypsy Dream Rose" will be sung by Everready tonight when the William Ollomatics, directed by Josef Koestner, broadcast a program direct from one of the most musical comedies and talking pictures from Chicago at 10 o'clock through WEEI.

THE RKO RADIO HOUR heard tonight from 10:30-11:30 over WEEI, presents an special selections two comedians of "Rio Rita," recently seen at the New B. F. Keith Theater. They are Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey. In addition to these two stars there will be heard: Leo Reisman and his RKO orchestra; Nan Halperin, singing comedienne; Peter Higgins, Irish tenor; Arthur Lake, Aladdin Pictures' star, who will soon be seen at the Keith-Albee Theater in the Radio picture "Tanned Legs," and Margaret Schilling, prominent soprano.

What It Means to Belong to a Christmas Club

AMONG the residents of Greater Boston who are best prepared to "shop early and mail early" are those who have received their Christmas Club checks from the savings banks.

They number about 160,000.

The sum represented by their combined checks is approximately $8,000,000.

Bankers say that about one-third of the average person's Christmas Club money will be transferred to a savings account. This means that the member has learned the value of periodic savings.

Another third will be paid out for taxes, coal, insurance, or to pay a hospital bill.

This will leave one-third, or in Boston considerably more than $2,500,000, for Christmas shopping.

Our congratulations to the Christmas-clubbers, who will find stores and stocks at their best, salespeople eager to build another record-breaking December.

The Christmas club as a savings bank adjunct was the thought of a Boston man, G. Wallace Tibbetts. The FIRST club—enrollment, 5000—was set up only 15 years ago.

Today, the Christmas Club is promoted throughout the country by more than 20,000 banks. In Massachusetts alone the club check will call for $30,000,000.

We can think of nothing better calculated to check the wave of "UNWARRANTED pessimism" to which President Hoover has referrred in recent conferences.

SHOP early, MAIL early and be ready for a BUSY New Year!

Opera

Huntington Avenue Invites the Music Lover

THE size of the audience which filled our beautiful opera house last night, to hear, enjoy and applaud "La Gioconda," encourages the hope that this FIRST season of the Boston Grand Opera Company may be so successful as to warrant a second and a third, at least.

Only one man, we are told, has ever made grand opera "pay" in America, so when we say successful, we are bound to confess that our thought is not of money.

The ladies and gentlemen who have associated themselves together in the present enterprise—Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Higginson, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Tuckerman, Dr. Lloyd, Mr. Gammell, Mr. Donald M. Hill, Mr. Tomasello and their friends—plainly can have no other profit in mind than that which may come from the advancement of good music and the performance of a community service.

They ASK for nothing. They bring to us conspicuous singers whose names have adorned the programs of the Metropolitan—Pasquale Amato, Henri Scott, Martha Attwood, Anne Roselle, Sophie Braslau—and these and others we are invited to hear in standard operas.

It will not be denied that there IS a growing hunger in America for GOOD music. The radio manager complains that it is one of his problems to induce clients to provide musical entertainment of a quality sufficiently high to keep pace with the public's steadily raising standards.

The opera season provides an opportunity to hear such music at first hand.

We feel certain that if Bostonians can be made acquainted with the opportunity which is now before them at the Opera House they will respond encouragingly. Prices are so low as to embarrass no one.

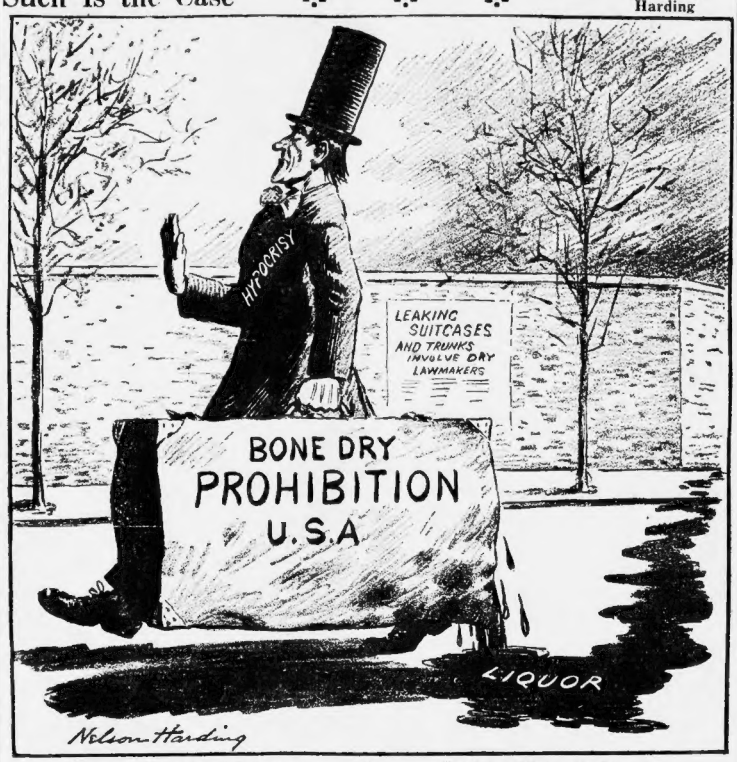
Such Is the Case

By Nelson Harding



How many more years shall we see
That label, "Bone Dry Prohibition;"
And how long will that luggage be
In obviously wet condition?

None but the blind could fail to note
That trail which follows endlessly,
Nor miss the features of the "case"

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

LAST week marked the correct end of college football as played in stadiums and the weekly news reels.

The investigation by Carnegie Foundation failed to prove that our November crop of amateurs was influenced by the farm subsidy.

Only one scandal developed. During the financial slump in Wall st. our own college had to let three players go until call money got lower.

We must admit that college football is brutal if you are forced to get your tickets off a speculator.

We believe that college football is the only real amateurish sport left, even though it is a tough way to earn a hospital chart.

The Carnegie Foundation claimed that colleges had extended their retail zones and that most players think alma mater is the name of a bank.

We didn't notice the foundation squawking that the A. E. F. was getting its board and tuition free. If a college athlete can earn his way through the dormitories by slugging eleven strangers according to rules and regulations, let him do it.

Why doesn't Carnegie Foundation get up a backfield and show the boys how to play the game?

This business of penalizing players sent us right. Last year we wanted a young fellow whose quarterback is one of the Peggy Wiggly teams in Arkansas.

"How would you like to go to college?" we asked him.

"You don't look so bright yourself," he said.

Then he called for a tackle play through the 50-cent seats.

College football is a violent form of education. But the boys like it and the Carnegie Foundation would like it too if they happened to be on the free list.

We see all the football games we can. And the more the boys slug each other, the more we are convinced that they are actuated by the most glorious tincture of patriotism and loyalty.

History shows that the Battle of Waterloo was won on the cricket fields of England. It was fortunate that it wasn't won on the gridirons of America, for they would still be fighting.

H. G. Wells Writes on

"The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

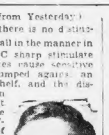
CLEARLY, there is no distinction at all in the manner in which C and C sharp stimulate cells—both notes cause sensitive cells to be bumped against an overhanging shelf, and the distinction lies in the fact that each note shakes a different group of cells.

Thus we see that the auditory cells are not sensitive to sounds as such, but they are sensitive to being touched; the ear is an ingenious device for touching different cells when notes of different pitch are sounded.



H. G. Wells

The nerve-fibres run from the ear to the brain, and here the impulses are interpreted as notes of varying pitch according to the particular fibres along which they arrive. Further, it is in the brain that the sensations given by simultaneous notes of different pitch are combined to form the complex sensation of a chord, and, becoming pleasant, discordant, rousing and so forth, acquire emotional significance.

SIGHT

IN studying hearing and smell we were forced to make humiliating confessions of inferiority.

Dogs perceive sounds and scents too faint for us to notice, and the human nose and outer ear are miserably developed structures when compared with their homologues in other mammals.

But now, in dealing with sight, we come into our own. Man and the ape and monkey rely on vision far more extensively than any other mammals, and it is probable from its minute structure that the human eye can see more distinctly than any other, save that of some birds.

Here, then, is our consolation. We have such excellent eyes that we have no need of noses, and we may interpret the enviably sensitive canine muzzle as a sign of the fogginess of the canine eye.

The structure of an eye is very like that of a photographic camera. We may distinguish two essential parts: a sensitive surface at the back, the retina, and an optical system that projects an image of the outside world on to that screen. The retina is the sense-organ proper, for it is here that the rays of light forming the image act on sensitive cells and initiate nervous impulses.

The eyeball is blackened within, like a camera, in order to prevent reflection and scattering of light. The structures in the front part of the eye are very strikingly like the structures in the front part of a camera.

The wall of the eyeball in this region is transparent and bulges forward as the cornea; a short distance behind the cornea there lies a doubly convex mass of transparent tissue, the lens.

When illumination is poor—in a dark room, for example, or at dusk—the iris opens widely, so that as much light as possible enters the eyes; when the light is very bright it closes down to a pin-point, for if the intensity of light inside the eyeball exceeds a certain value the retinal cells are injured and become temporarily or permanently incapacitated.

There is another advantage to the use of an iris diaphragm, whether in the eye or in a camera, depending on the fact that the middle of a lens always focuses light more accurately than the edges. If the light is bright enough it is always a good thing to stop down the iris to a small size and cut out the edges of the lens, so that the image formed has the least possible distortion of color and line.

The lens divides the cavity of the eyeball into two parts. Of these the part in front of the lens is filled with a watery fluid, the aqueous humour and that behind it is filled with a transparent jelly, the vitreous humour. The aqueous humour is constantly being secreted by glands of the ciliary region and oozing out through fine pores at the edges of the cornea; by means of this slow, steady stream, food and oxygen are brought to the cells of the lens and adjacent structures and their waste products are washed away.

The eye, then, is provided with a combination of two smoothly-curved bodies, the cornea and the lens, by means of which light can be focused on to the retina. By far the largest part in image formation is played by the cornea, which is responsible for about two-thirds of the bending of rays of light.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

MOST men, nowadays, take merely a casual interest in a kiss, a sporting interest in love, and an academic interest in marriage.

The climax of the old-fashioned love-affair was the point at which the hero "folded the girl in his arms, at LAST"! But, now, he does, at FIRST—and all the rest is anti-climax.

A man may be wise in his generation, and a fountain of knowledge in his profession or his business office; but, somehow, he never seems more than sixteen years old to his wife.

It is not the mating instinct so much as the gambling instinct, which lures so many modern women to keep right on marrying, win or lose!

It doesn't take much to make a woman proud of her husband. She can even boast with a glow of satisfaction of his marvelous ability to digest lobster salad, ice cream and mince pie.

Absence is no test of love—because it isn't anybody's absence you will have to endure after marriage; it's his or her eternal PRESENCE.

When a man says, "I'll TRY to see you," he unconsciously admits dear heart, that it is going to be rather a "trial."

Grass-Widow: The "angel" to whom a man once paid court—and the "devil" to whom he now pays alimony.

The average woman doesn't think that she has had her share of this life's thrills, unless she has been "just saved" from temptation, at least a couple of times.

Some people treat their love as carelessly and roughly as though it had nine lives.

The Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

THE scar across a soldier's face
Men dread to look upon,
May mark some high, triumphant hour,
Some splendid victory won.

And he who bears it may forget
War's cruel strife and pain.
Dark hours of furious defense,
May count them wholly gain.

Because through struggle men have climbed
To fairer ways of life,
To better deed and nobler thought,
Unvexed at last by strife.

So, scars that on the spirit lie
May show the progress made.
The conflicts whence a soul emerged,
Scarps and unafraid.

A Lesson in Farm Relief

What Do You Think These Sugar Farmers Need?

A SUGAR MILL IN THE PHILIPPINES

THIS is a one-ox-one-man sugar mill in the Philippine Islands. The man feeds the sugar cane into the grinding machine by hand. It is ground up by one-ox power.

Our Filipino friends have two desires. They wish first of all to be independent of the United States. That would be a good idea except for several reasons.

Reason number one is that they wouldn't know how to run their own country.

Reason number two is that they wouldn't be ALLOWED to run it, because if they set up for themselves, Japan or some other Asiatic Power would step in and take charge.

Reason number three is that this country rescued them from the tyranny, superstition and ignorance of Spanish government, spending millions of American money on public schools, roads and other things.

While the politicians in the Philippines want freedom, the business men in the Philippines want free access to American markets. They say it is an outrage to put any tariff on sugar coming from the Philippines into America. They accuse American sugar growers who demand protection of "crushing the people of the Philippines as producers and the people of the United States as consumers."

Congress and American sugar producers will probably attend to the tariff matter. They usually do.

Time will attend to the question of the Philippines and their independence. Since this country can afford the cost, it is well to keep a good landing place across the Pacific.

The chief value of this picture for the United States is its lesson in regard to much discussed "farm relief."

This Filipino sugar farmer believes that all he needs is a subsidy, a bonus, a "debenture" scheme from his Government, plus the kind of tariff he wants and plus a few other things.

Any high school boy knows at a glance that what this Filipino farmer really needs is BETTER MACHINERY, better organization, an entirely different way of turning sugar cane into sugar.

And what is true of this farmer in the Philippines is true of millions of American farmers in this country. They haven't the right machinery, they lack organization. Their industry is managed as primitively, almost, as it was in the Stone Age.

The Filipinos should have steel plows instead of a piece of wood hardened in the fire. They should have tractors instead of oxen. They, and American farmers, work as isolated individuals, walking unnecessary miles a day, trying to handle more land than one man can handle economically or profitably.

What our farmers need is exactly what INDUSTRY needed some time ago and GOT, that is to say, REORGANIZATION, GREATER EFFICIENCY, LESS WASTE, MASS PRODUCTION.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 3—In the archives of the Rogues' Gallery are carefully catalogued 15,000 men and women who have no means of support save outwitting the susceptible along the Gay Gulch. They are the fast workers in a fast-living world.

Now and then they fall afoul the law and are mugged for a short prison term, but not often. Their traps are so obvious the victims are ashamed to squawk and that is why such rascals flourish. Police know them well, but unless they "catch them cold" nothing can be done.

The sel-like creatures are known by underworld sobriquets of Flash Harry, Straw Hat Willie, Dapper Dan, Mickey the Dude, Savannah May, Diamond Kate and so on. They are the glib and glossy sort one meets at the chop house tables or in a speakeasy back room.

Sleekly barbered, highly perfumed and blatant, they have a disarming manner among the gullible. Thimble-rigging, phoney dice or badger games are not their forte. They specialize in smooth trickeries that make a victim feel such a sucker he would pay them to keep it quiet.

Within a week, a gentleman by no means dumb to the ways of Broadway fell in with one of the guild. Several days later he was approached for a loan on a diamond ring. That is a very old one—and he smiled. But he was persuaded to have the ring appraised.

He was piloted to a nearby jeweler who said the ring was easily worth $1000. The owner only wanted $300 and because of sentiment did not want to pawn it. He got the $300 and later the ring was discovered to be worth about $25. The jeweler, who aids in such flim-flams, denied ever seeing the ring.

In the same fashion, Broadway insiders know about the playwright who authors slick crook plays and the "pianist" pearl in an opium.

The "discoverer" took it to the jeweler accompanied by the playwright with whom he had been dining. And the playwright jumped at the chance to buy it for $800. It was worth $5.

Foes of cigarettes—especially toward their use by women—are exercising vigilance lately. Twice in theater foyers, zealots have snatched cigarettes from scarlet lips, ground them under heels and walked away. On 57th st. one of those ladies with the casual enamel of a vanity case was puffing away in her limousine while reading a magazine. She was startled out of her calm by a man's hand reaching in and plucking her smoke. And we wager one nick against two knacks some busybody—if it doesn't stop—is going feet up to a hospital in a pretty litter most any day now.

Many will reserve the right, however, to glare at ladies who pop into elevators flipping ashes here and there. We saw one benign gentleman's beard about to imitate a spark in dry grass one evening recently in the Savoy-Plaza.

They build up and tear down so quickly in this town it was only yesterday I realized with a jack rabbit start that 15 buildings standing in my neighborhood a year ago have been demolished. And I'm afraid to look for Year the new Waldorf is finished.

From Hollywood: "Every once in awhile I see in your column in the morning that you have seen scandso on Broadway and I walk out on Hollywood boulevard in the afternoon and there they are!"

Folks will fly!

Dudley Field Malone seems to be the only Brummel brave enough to attend the theater in an opera coat with an Inverness cape. Furthermore, the cape is lined with white satin—the big Irish dude!
